Here's Another Week
800 Acres of Floor
Swift's Good Idea
As the Pole Shifts

—By Arthur Brisbane—

LAST week brokers bought and sold 3,500,000 more shares than in any previous week of stock exchange history.

The week closed with a mild selling attack. You will know tonight how this week started. Bears will tell you "Stocks are too high" and some of them are. The bulls say "Stocks are not selling at their full value" and that is true of some of them.

The wise man studies values, buys what he knows he can pay for, just as he would buy land or an automobile, and leaves the gambling fireworks and headaches to the foolish.

Boston having modified an unwise restriction on building will soon possess the biggest store and office building in the world.

Built in terraces, on the "Set back" system, the great structure in Park sq. will contain 20,000,000 feet of floor space. That is equivalent to nearly five hundred acres of floor space in one building.

It means great possibilities of increased city revenue and facilitates contact for business men, it means great saving of time.

Ten thousand people in one New York city building is not unusual, and every such unit means enormous saving.

Swift & Company increase from $65,000,000 to $100,000,000 the amount of insurance on their 40,000 employes. Swift's and the men share the cost.

Insuring workmen was called rank socialism when Bismarck, ultra conservative, amazed Europe by his old age pension laws. Now insuring workers becomes a part of intelligent modern business.

Great industrialists realize that the men are also an important part of the plant.

Nobile, flying over the North Pole in his dirigible, will drop near the pole a wooden cross blessed by the Pope and containing a letter in the Pope's handwriting.

It would have been desirable to make the cross of material more lasting than wood. Thousands of years hence, when the earth's changing position shall have given us another north star, and made the polar regions warm, it would have interested another race of men to find the interesting relic of our day.

George Remus was a bootlegger, somewhat temperamental. In fact, his temper was violent.

He killed his wife, shot her dead in spite of her pitiful appeals for mercy. But, intelligent and forceful, he convinced justice that he was insane. He went to the insane asylum for a little while, and having now convinced justice that he has recovered his sanity, he is let out.

The next chapter will be interesting.

If there are 4,000,000 idle in America, as the Democrats say, seeking to oust Republicans, or only 1,870,000 as the Republicans say, is not this the time to inaugurate the five-work day week?

Efficiency in machinery has advanced more rapidly than demand for workers.

The work that 100 men did in the automobile industry ten years ago is done by 20 men now.

The five-day-week universally applied would about solve the unemployment problem.

Why not try it? To have all workers busy five days, resting two days, with nobody idle, would be a good deal better than

RUGG TELLS OF L. A. W. PARLEY

Along two separate tracks, but toward a common goal, prosecution of the legislative investigation into Atty.-Gen. Arthur K. Reading's conduct in office proceeded today before the special committee of Representatives sitting at the first hearing of the case.

Along one track proceeded a train of evidence intended to link Reading with the missing "cattle fraud" papers.

Along another moved a train of evidence linking the attorney-general with subsidiaries of the United L. A. W., of Worcester, in the capacity of a counsel and director. In his dual capacity as attorney-general

Felix Vorenburg, Boston merchant, and Captain Thomas G. Frothingham of the Beacon Hill Frothingham family, were drawn for jury duty today by the Boston City Council. The former was listed as a resident at the Copley-Plaza Hotel and Capt. Frothingham, banker, as of Chestnut st.

FATHER BARES QUARREL OF STEWART GIRL WITH A WORCESTER RELATIVE

A quarrel between Marguerite Isabelle Stewart, murdered supervisor of the Beverly School for Deaf Mutes, and a male relative in Worcester, was revealed today by the girl's father, Charles Edward Stewart.

Stewart also gave to police the names of two other men, neither a relative, however, who had been friendly with the girl before she left Worcester for Beverly.

Another development today was understanding that at a conference between Dist.-Atty Robert T. Bushnell of Middlesex and State Detectives O'Neill and Sherlock the feasibility of arresting as an accessory one of the men questioned thus far in the investigation was considered. It is put forward that this man has not told all he knows.

KLAN 'RIOTS, MURDER' 'BARED' BY STEPHENSON

Michigan City, Ind., April 2 (INS)—A tale of crime ranging from flogging to murder and political corruption, committed or sanctioned by the Ku Klux Klan, was revealed here today by D. C. Stephenson, once Indiana Klan dragon, and second in command of the national klan.

Stephenson's story was told in his cell in a formal, sworn deposition, given under order of Judge W. H. S. Thomson of the United States District Court of Pennsylvania.

The deposition was taken under direction of Van C. Barrickman, Pittsburgh attorney, who is counsel in a federal suit seeking to oust the klan from Pennsylvania.

BURNED AT STAKE

Men were flogged, lynched and burned at the stake for opposing the klan, while those higher placed were ruined socially and politically when the organization could not bend them to its well, Stephenson revealed.

Catholic churches were burned and pillaged, riots were incited and political officials bent to corrupt ways through orders of the klan chiefs.

UNFROCKED MINISTER SUES FIVE FOR $25,000

Fall River, April 2 (INS)—A $25,000 civil suit against five members of the Methodist Episcopal Church has been filed by Guy Willis Holmes, former New Bedford minister, it was revealed today when a writ was served on four of them as they were leaving the morning session of the annual meeting of the New England southern conference.

This action follows the ousting of Holmes as a Methodist minister after criminal charges had been made against him by a New Bedford waitress. Holmes was being tried for the second time by the conference during the present meeting, and his case had been under consideration at the morning session. Four members of the clergy are included in the joint action which was

FALL NAMES SENATOR IN $100,000 'LOAN' PLOT

El Paso, Tex., April 2 (AP)—A United States Senator, a former Senator and a former Cabinet officer, now in Europe, were named in the deposition of Albert B. Fall as the men who advised him to write the famous McLean letter to the Senate oil committee seeking to conceal the name of Edward L. Doheny, who lnt the Interior Secretary $100,000.

Fall, it was learned, testified in the deposition, which is for use in the trial of Harry F. Sinclair on charges of conspiring with Fall to defraud the Government in the Teapot Dome naval oil reserve lease, that he wass ilk in bed at the time and the party leaders called on him and urged him to conceal the fact that the money came from Doheny.

The leaders feared that knowledge of the Doheny loan would caus

BUSINESS MEN OPPOSE 'L' PUBLIC OWNERSHIP

Representatives of business organizations, Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce of Metropolitan Boston, meeting with the Boston Chamber of Commerce today went on record as opposed to public ownership of the Boston Elevated Railway.

After a report was read by former Mayor Andrew J. Peters, stating the Boston chamber was two to one in favor of public control but not public ownership, discussion took place that resulted in the unanimous vote for the former.

RADIO SETS NEW HIGH RECORD; MARKET MIXED

Prices were mixed in the last hour in New York Stock Exchange trading today, although pool favorites as a rule showed strength.

Price movements during the day were startlingly reversed from time to time. When call money was raised to 5½ per cent in the afternoon there was some unsettlement.

Radio was again the star performer. Opening off $8 a share at $178, it smashed forward to $196.50, a new record high for all time. Amid a wild flurry of sell orders, Radio then dipped rapidly to $187.

Wright Aero soared around $9 to a new peak of $101.50 before reacting violently.

New highs were established by Loew, Park & Tilford, American Zinc preferred, Curtiss Aeroplane, St. Paul common and preferred, Great Northern preferred, Best & Co., American Ice and American Safety Razor.

Trading failed to keep pace with the 4,000,000 share sessions of last week. Total sales for the day crossed the 3,000,000-share mark for the 17th consecutive full session.

MISS STEWART HELD CAPTIVE BEFORE SHE WAS KILLED

According to the father, Marguerite's quarrel with her relative was over the man's having taken up residence in the home of a Worcester woman.

Commenting on the two men whose names he gave the police, Stewart said particularly of one:

"He was an agent for a business concern. He and Marguerite had business relations, but there were several things that aroused my suspicions.

"Two nights before she went to Beverly she told me she was going out with a gentleman, but I don't know whether it was this man or someone else. She came in at 10 o'clock that night and I was angry because she had said she would be back at 8 o'clock.

"She tried to kiss me and smooth things over, but I was so angry that I did not accept it."

HITS AT BROTHER

Stewart exhibited a letter he received last Tuesday from his daughter, now dead.

The letter was written on the previous day, Monday, March 26. It said:

"Dear Dad:—Your letter of Sunday received Friday. Was sorry to learn of your hard luck.

"I would like to take Douglas (one of Marguerite's brothers) and wring his neck. He is responsible for nearly every bit of trouble the family has ever had.

"Well, the last two days have given us a taste of spring. It sure was great here yesterday. I took my group shopping and those who had money bought Easter toys—rubber balls—and those who did not have any money, I bought presents for. Coming back to the school we all had ice cream cones. We certainly had a good time.

HUNT MURDER CAR

"My thirteenth child arrived last Wednesday and I don't think I will have any more. He is only a baby, five and a half years old, very much spoiled—and sub-normal.

"Today we all went to the beach. Miss Wadman had a card party Friday night and had refreshments and what she had left over she gave to me, so we all had a treat after we got to the beach.

"Mrs. Perry was over with the girls, and Miss Wadman came down with some of the older boys that she had to care for while their supervisor takes the Catholics to church.

"I hope this finds you feeling better than when you wrote last. Janey was so pleased with her card. Let me know about Abbie's dress and remember me to all."

She closed the letter with, "Love to all. Marguerite," and added a postscript: "Cannot find Jeannette's drawing. She must have destroyed it the day she left the hospital."

Other developments in the strange case today included:

Turning over to state police by Samuel White of Marlboro, friend of the slain girl, of a letter she wrote him and in which she mentioned the name of another man in a connection that was not divulged.

A search of garages for the murder car in which the Stewart girl's body was carried to Concord and deposited beside the Cambridge turnpike.

Checking up of a mysterious telephone call received by the girl just before she disappeared, and of several other phone calls from Worcester to the Beverly school.

Preparations for diverting Mill brook, Concord, in hope of finding the murder weapon and the girl's hat.

Also the murdered girl's father was released from police custody in Worcester today by the district court probation officer without arraignment. Stewart was arrested Saturday night on a drunkenness charge after threatening to commit suicide.

It was frankly admitted by detectives today that the search for the murderer is advancing closer and closer to Worcester, the young woman's home city.

The present theory is that she was held prisoner for a night and a day by the father of her unborn child, who finally murdered her when she refused to listen to pleadings or quail before threats.

Slain Girl Never Able to Learn Dancing

With all her love for music, and a natural ability toward rhythm, Marguerite Stewart could never learn to dance.

Young "Sammy" White, of Marlboro, with whose family Marguerite was intimate for a period of five years when she lived in Northboro, often tried to teach the girl some simple steps, but in vain.

"Sammy" used to dance with his sister Lydia, when Marguerite was visiting the White home and Marguerite looked enviously on. But the Whites could never succeed in teaching her to dance.

The police are concentrating on this theory today, seeking the man who was responsible for the girl's condition, confident that when they have found him they will have unearthed the murderer

For hours State Inspector Edward P. O'Neil and Sergt. Daniel G. Curtin of the Concord police questioned the murdered girl's brother, Douglas Stuart, Worcester violin teacher, who spells his name differently "because of professional reasons."

HELD CAPTIVE

The investigators were reluctant to tell what information they had gleaned in the long catechism of the brother, but the Worcester police believe that an arrest is due today as the result of the questioning. Douglas Stuart had previously said that he did not know the man who was responsible for his sister's condition.

The police base their theory that the girl was held captive for hours before she was murdered, on two features.

The first came with the discovery that 10-year-old Jeanette Stewart, pupil at the Beverly School of Deaf Mutes, on whose account Marguerite took the position at the school, is actually the daughter of Marguerite, not her sister.

They believed that she had long regretted the fact that Jeanette could never claim a father, and had determined as soon as she realized her condition that her second baby would have a name and a father.

GARAGES WATCHED

Garage men have been pressed into service by the police in the effort to find the automobile, believed to be a Hudson sedan. The investigators are confident that it must be blood-stained, and garage men all over the State are examining all cars in their charge today.

The girl's father added to the probability of the "prisoner and threat" theory when he said that his daughter had evidently had a premonition that something might happen to her.

She gave him the key to her safety deposit vault when he last saw her, and told him that she had just paid the insurance policies on her life and his, little Jeanette being the beneficiary. He had thought little of this at the time but in the light of the tragedy believes that it was significant of the fact that the girl felt that something might happen.

The father, however, had lost the key she gave him and could not remember the name of the Boston bank in which his daughter had the safety deposit box.

Douglas Stuart, differing with the police in their belief that the father of her unborn child had slain her, offered a fantastic theory of his own. He said he believed that she had been accosted by one or more of a gang of white slavers, just outside the North Station, on Thursday night, had been kidnaped in an automobile, and murdered when she refused to do the bidding of the gang.

TRACE PHONE CALL

A second brother, Solomon Stewart of Worcester, believed to be more in the confidence of the sister than Douglas, will be questioned by the police today. It is believed that he knows the man who is father of Jeanette and the police are also hopeful that the girl might have told him the name of the man responsible for her delicate condition.

He was not at his Worcester home when Douglas was questioned, having gone to Northboro to visit his wife, who is ill there. It was he who made formal identification of the girl.

Another task facing the investigators today is the attempt to trace a telephone call to the Beverly school. Marguerite talked over the phone for several minutes with somebody who called her Thursday afternoon. According to the school teacher who answered the telephone the voice was that of a man, and it is believed that the Stewart girl made an engagement to meet him that night.

KLAN 'SECRETS' UNMASKED

with murders and political crimes charged to the klan, are withheld pending court action on the deposition.

The published portion, however, reveals the inner workings of the organization as it appeared to the man who once ruled it. It was called by officials who saw the deposition the "first real unmasking of the klan."

Stephenson told freely names of victims of klan wrath, and of perpetrators of the outrages. He discussed causes for rioting at Mer Rouge, South Bend, Herrin, Carnegie and other places.

The former dragon told of his leadership of the klan, of its formation and early prosperity under the idealistic rule of Emperor Simmons. Then he revealed the evils of later klan rule.

When Simmons was ousted from leadership the klan continued to scheme against men it could not bend to its purposes.

"Women," Stephenson declared, "were the chief and most effective means of destroying klan opponents.

"In several cases one of these women was photographed while scantily clad and then, by skilled photographic manipulation of the pictures, the klan's enemies would be combined in the same view.

"One instance is where an attempt was made to involve the name of Sen. Fess with that of a woman. The klan reason was because Sen. Fess had voted against the Smith-Towner bill, which would have abolished parochial schools and had for its object other purposes."

He told how the klan bought judges by pledging them enough votes to elect them, how legislators were put in office to vote for bills suitable to the society.

Questioned on political policies, he told of initiating Governor Ed Jackson, who, he said, had visions at one time of going into the White House through the aid of the klan.

Hiram Evans, he said, at one time told him he was going to move the national offices of the klan to Washington, D. C., "there to do for the United States what he (Stephenson) had done for Indiana."

He revealed existence of the "Black Mask" worn by members of lynching and whipping parties. It was, he said, the official uniform used in acts of mob violence. He mentioned also the "battalion of death," a purple robed group of killers in Philadelphia and other communities.

Riots at Niles, O., and Perth Amboy, N. J., in which klansmen were killed, were sponsored by the klan, he said, in order to increase memberships.

Asked for membership figures, Stephenson said that at the peak of its prosperity in 1922 the klan had 315,000 members in Indiana, 350,000 in Ohio, 300,000 in Pennsylvania, 60,000 in New Jersey, and 300,000 in all the New England states. Illinois was slightly below Indiana, the witness said, while Michigan was about the same as Indiana. Wisconsin had 60,000.

The organization took in between fifty and sixty million dollars during the time in which he held office, Stephenson said.

Stephenson's deposition will be used in a suit, to be heard April 9, in which five former Klansmen are seeking to have the Klan barred from Pennsylvania on the ground that it has incited riots, misappropriated huge sums and exerted evil influence on public officials.

Garage Owners Can Aid in Hunt for Murder Car

Owners of garages in Greater Boston and in cities and towns throughout the State are urged to assist in the investigation of the brutal murder of Marguerite Isabelle Stewart.

State detectives are searching for the automobile in which the 27-year-old Beverly school teacher was slain, or in which her body was transported to the lonely spot on the Cambridge turnpike and ruthlessly cast aside.

Every owner or proprietor of a public garage can materially aid in the search for the murderer by carefully examing every car parked in his establishment, particularly for blood stains on the seats or floor.

FRENCH FLIERS AND GERMANS MAY RACE

Dublin, April 2—An air race across the Atlantic from this country to New York is the possibility unless the three German fliers get away in their plane, the Bremen, in a short time, because French aviators are anxious to try the flight.

Weather conditions held up the German hopoff again today, though Capt. Herman Koehl, pilot, said that the jump will be made tomorrow unless conditions are altogether too unfavorable.

The report is that Maurice Drouhin, who was engaged last year by Charles A. Levine for the Paris-New York hop that never materialized, is the French pilot who desires to make Ireland the jumping off place for a westward flight.

The report is that he will fly to Ireland soon, perhaps Tuesday.

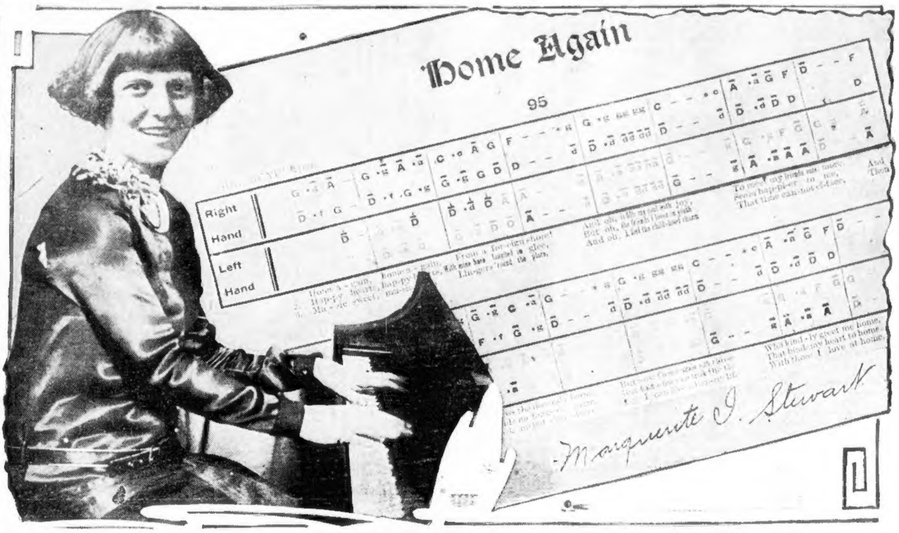
BLEAK ROAD HIDES SECRET OF TEACHER'S FATE

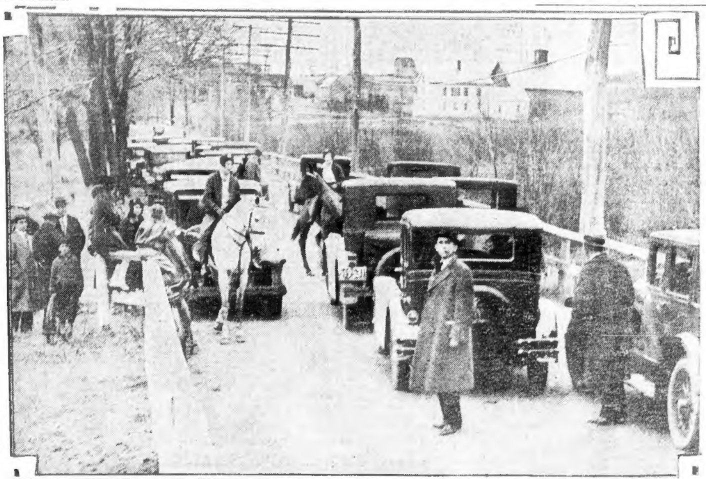


Slain Marguerite Stewart, Beverly teacher, loved music but she never had the chance to take lessons. She taught herself at home. This shows her at the piano, also a sheet of her favorite song and underneath the murdered girl's signature. She was talented also as a teacher and her associates at the Beverly School for the Deaf praise her highly for her work among the pupils at the institution where she was a favorite with pupils and teachers.

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN
A HOME PAPER FOR PEOPLE WHO THINK
BOSTON, MONDAY, APRIL 2, 1928

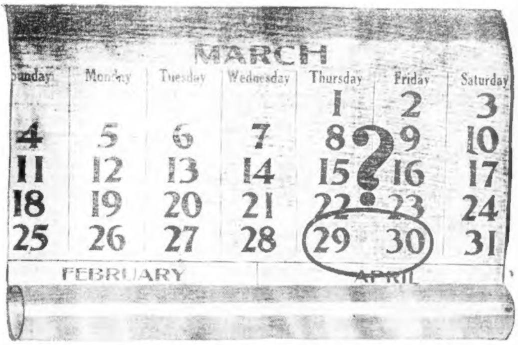
Joseph Dee, undertaker, with assistants, carrying the casket containing the body of murdered Marguerite Stewart. The body of the slain girl was brought to Boston for further pathological examination.

In happier days Marguerite found great pleasure in singing, as picture shows. Her favorite song was "Home Again." The slain girl was musically inclined, her friends assert, and was frequently heard in song.



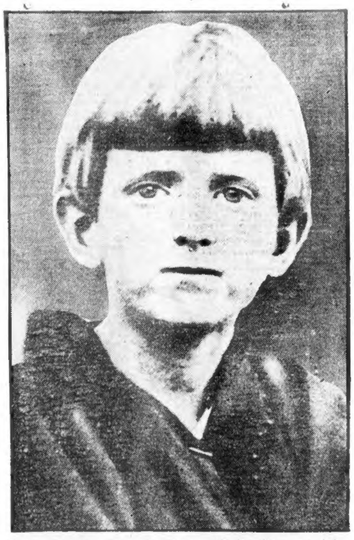
This spot by Cambridge turnpike in Concord, where the teacher's body was found, drew hundreds of curiosity seekers. At times the crowd was so great that the road was blocked, as this picture shows. Hundreds of motorists, police estimate, turned off the main road to catch a glimpse of the spot where the dead girl lay when she was found early Friday night.

The girl's father, Charles E. Stewart, was locked up in Worcester jail following his threats to commit suicide, Worcester police said. The charge against him was that of drunkenness.

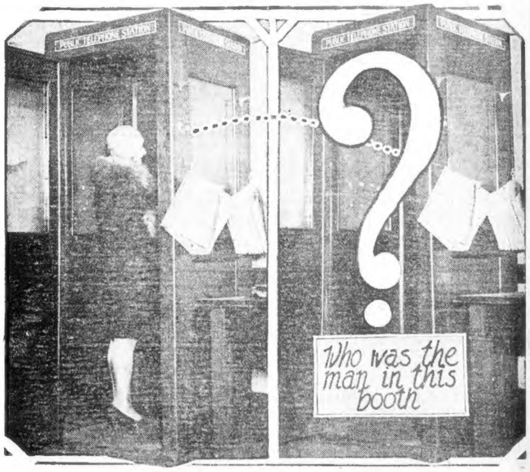


What took place on last Thursday and Friday? The police would like to know but today all they have to go by is a dark question mark on the calendar. Mystery veils the slain teacher's fate. Just where the slaying actually took place the police are at a loss to determine. The slayer, after leaving the body in Concord, speeded away and was swallowed up in the blackness of the night. Police are seeking to learn his identity.

The police are still seeking the poppy brown hat Marguerite Stewart wore when she left the school in Beverly. Misses Sarah and Nellie Denaro of Concord are holding a felt hat similar to that of Miss Stewart's, now missing. The discovery of the hat, police assert, will be a valuable clue in aiding them to uncover more facts about the slaying



Marie Jeanette Stewart, 10-year-old daughter of slain teacher, is a pupil in the Beverly School for the Deaf, where her mother taught.



Who was the mystery man Miss Stewart talked to over the telephone Thursday afternoon? Police believe if they can find out they will have an important clue by which they may be able to trace her movements after leaving Beverly and find a solution of the murder. The picture illustrates the telephone conversation in which the voice on the other end of the wire was the voice of a man. Who is he?

2 HELD IN 'MILK BOTTLE' FIGHT ON COMMON

Bonds of $25,000 were placed on two youths today in municipal court when arraigned charged with wielding milk bottles in assault and robbery on Boston Common.

George Wright, 21-year-old sailor attached to the navy tug Cayeta, and Frank Lewis, 24, of Eleanor st., Chelsea, the defendants, waived examination and were held for Superior Court while police searched for a third suspect and a victim believed to have been spirited away from the scene.

Captain William Livingston, head of the police "flying squadron," told the court the affair was "the most brutal assault committed in the city for many years."

John McArdle, Coolidge Corner gown shop proprietor, and Harrison R. Boulla of Clearway st., Back Bay, are nursing serious injuries today after playing the role of Good Samaritans to the missing victim.

The attackers had apparently raided a milk wagon for their weapons, Captain Livingston told the court, laying in wait for their victims near the subway entrance at Park st.

Both men were charged with robbery and assault and battery with intent to rob. The man sought is believed to be a soldier.

3 MEN LOST FROM MOHAVE ON NAVY MISSING LIST

Three navy men, lost February 12 when the tug Mohave went aground on Harding's ledge, were ordered on the navy missing list for a period of one year on orders of Secretary Wilbur today. The men, A. B Liles, W. J. Enos and C. H. P. Reid, disappeared after they put off from the wreck in a punt. The punt was found at Scituate.

After one year, the order stated, the case is referred to the Judge Advocate General.

HEAD OF D. A. R. BACKS STATE'S BLACKLIST

Washington, April 2 (AP)—Approval of the action of the Massachusetts Daughters of the American Revolution in blacklisting certain speakers was given today by Mrs. Alfred J. Brosseau, president general of the D. A. R.

She said the blacklist was reported to include persons who have opposed the support given by the D. A. R. to the navy building program.

Mrs. Brosseau said that although it was a state matter she considered D. A. R. leaders in Massachusetts had "a perfect right to advise their chapters for or against public speakers."

Mrs. Brosseau said Mrs. Helen Tufts Baillie, of the Massachusetts organization, who has opposed the blacklist, apparently did not "hesitate to demand free speech on her own behalf and those whom she seeks to defend even though she appears to be denying a similar privilege to her own organization."

"The right of any Daughter of the American Revolution to stand for national defense certainly is not a matter which should be questioned," she continued. "Yet, it is known to me that Mrs. Baille privately and publicly has objected to the stand of the D. A. R. in support of the pending Navy bill." Mr. Brosseau said. "It is time that all Americans stood up and were counted."

D. A. R. Chiefs Deny Ban Is on Against Mrs. Fuller

Refuting talk of unfriendliness in the ranks of the Daughters of the American Revolution, Mrs. James C. Peabody, grand regent, and Mrs. Stephen P. Hurd, State vice-regent, today issued statements denying that Mrs. Alvan T. Fuller, wife of the Governor, was blacklisted on account of "red" leanings.

Mrs. Fuller, holder of honorary membership in the International Ladies' Garment Makers' Union, was among other prominent persons on the supposed "blacklist" made public by Mrs. Helen Tufts Baille of Cambridge.

"Mrs. Fuller is past State counsellor of the D. A. R.," the vice-regent stated, "and the friendliest of relations exist between her and all state officers.

"These reports of unfriendliness are merely propaganda of a speaker who is opposed to D. A. R. principles."

MICHIGAN IS ALL FOR HOOVER

Detroit, April 2 (AP)—Voters of Michigan today went through the formality of expressing their preference for presidential candidates, although only one aspirant for the nomination from each of the major political parties was entered in the ballots.

Governor Al Smith of New York was the only Democratic candidate to file an entry in Michigan. The Republican field was left uncontested to Herbert Hoover.

Voters are permitted to scratch these entries and substitute names of other preferred candidates, and political leaders thought this technicality might have a bearing on the Democratic ballots, as some sentiment in favor of Sen. Thomas Walsh of Montana has cropped up among the followers of the late Sen. Woodbridge N. Ferris.

Ohio Delegates Likely to Swing to Dawes or Lowden

Columbus, O., April 2 (AP)—Indications that delegate candidates pledged to Senator Willis as first choice for President now will select either Vice-President Charles G. Dawes or former Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois to carry their banner in the fight with Secretary Herbert Hoover for mastery in Ohio strengthened today.

The selection of a first choice to take the place of Willis will be decided by the delegate candidates Tuesday, immediately following the funeral services for Senator Willis.

The fact that the Vice-President is a native Ohiean, born and reared at Marietta, may influence the decision in his favor, it was indicated.

BRIDGE TENDERS ASK FOR INCREASE IN WAGES

The executive board of the Bridge Tenders' Union approved the action of the wage conference committee in requesting Mayor Nichols to include in the municipal budget an increased wage for these workers. The board also received reports on the negotiations being carried on for increases for the men employed on the Cambridge and Metropolitan district bridges.

These reports were to the effect that Mayor Quinn of Cambridge has promised the increase, while the Metropolitan district commission will hold a meeting at Room 307 today to learn the civil service ratings of the men.

FRAMINGHAM MAN ARRESTED AT MEETING

Milford, April 2—As a result of a Fascisti and anti-Fascisti clash at 10 Main st., Guilio Montenari of Larrible ave., Framingham, will appear in Milford District Court today charged with attack with a dangerous weapon.

A meeting was held at which 300 Fascisti and anti-Fascisti were present. During heated arguments between the two factions Montenari is alleged to have struck Angelo Salvatore of 15 Main st. on the shoulder with an iron bar wrapped in a newspaper.

CHELSEA MAN FOUND DEAD IN BED BY OWN SISTER

On going to call her brother, Clarence E. Tennan, 59, single, Miss Eva Tennan found him dead in bed at their home, 51 Ash st., Chelsea. She called Dr. A. L. Masters, who pronounced him beyond aid. Medical Examiner George B. Magrath was notified. Miss Tennan said her brother came home early Saturday night and, saying he was ill, retired.

U. S. INCOME TAX RETURNS NEAR LAST YEAR'S FIGURE

Washington, April 2 (INS)—Income tax collections for March this year will equal the figure of last year $516,000,000, Treasury officials estimated today, when figures for all but the last day of the month showed a total of $510,000,000.

Oil Pioneer Dies

Titusville, Penn., April 2—Joseph Seep, 89, chairman of the board of directors of the South Penn. Oil Co. and pioneer oil man, died at his home here. He had been ill since January.

Kentucky's Governor Hangs a Colonelcy on Will Rogers

Lexington, Ky., April 2 (INS)—It's "Col. Will Rogers" now, and make that salute snappy!

The cowboy commentator was enrolled on the staff of Governor Flem D. Sampson here Sunday, after a Saturday night speech.

Governor Sampson is a Republican. Rogers has always been a Democrat.

BOMB DESTROYS HOME IN SCRANTON OUTRAGE

Scranton, Pa., April 2 (INS)—A bomb exploded early today in the tenderloin district of this city tearing away the front of the home of Marie Bell and shattering windows in a score of buildings. The explosion was felt over the entire city. No one was injured. Police said they had no indication as to the motive for the bombing.

BOYS MISTAKE FIREMAN FOR POLICEMAN, FLEE CAR

Mistaking Private Roy Elliot of the Everett fire department for a member of that city's police force, four youths who were driving along Oliver st., Everett, in an automobile, suddenly brought the machine to a dead stop, jumped out and dashed away. It developed the machine belonged to Louise Spagnolio of 24 Trowbridge st., Belmont. The car had been reported stolen to the Joy st. police station in Boston.

BRICKLEY FREES BONDSMAN

Charles A. Brickley, former Harvard football star, recently found guilty in stock transactions, voluntarily surrendered to Judge Fosdick, in superior court today to relieve his bondsman.

He was under $5000 bail on an indictment which has been placed on file. The bondsman is Joseph Rocco of Everet. Brickley is out on $30,000 bail in connection with the charges on which he was found guilty a week ago. He is carrying an appeal to the Superior Court.

WOMAN SHOPPER, 76, INJURED BY TRUCK

In view of crowds of shoppers, Miss Nellie M. Kneeland, 76, of 88 Melrose st., Melrose, was knocked down today by a truck as she crossed Winter st. The driver of the truck, Hector Saunders, took her to the Haymarket Relief station. She suffered injuries to her right arm.

Liquor Raid

Sergt. Patrick J. McCarthy and Patrolmen Toomey and Grady visited the home of William F. Bablck in Smith st., and seized a half-pint of liquor and implements of sale.

TWO CHILDREN SAVED IN SO. END FIRE

Two children were rescued and three families narrowly escaped suffocation in a fire which destroyed a three-story brick dwelling at 19 Lucas st., South End, early today.

Patrolman Joseph H. Fewers of Station 5 discovered the blaze and rushed into the building to arouse the occupants. While assisting them to the street the officer learned that two children were trapped on an upper floor.

He made his way through the smoke to a rear bedroom on the third floor and found Veronica Stankewich, seven, and her nine-year old sister, Sylvia, huddled in bed. Covering them with bed clothing he carried them to the street.

James Stankewich, father of the two rescued children, his wife, Veronica, and a two-year-old daughter, Mary, were among those assisted to the street.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sulkosky and their three children, Olga, 12; Emil nine, and Helmit, seven, were guided from the top floor through dense clouds of smoke. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lapchis and their children, Horace, 10, and Mary, two, occupants of the second floor who were aroused by Patrolman Fewers, were affected by smoke and cared for at a neighbor's home.

Damage was estimated at $2500.

COUPLE WED 61 YEARS TO OBSERVE ANNIVERSARY

Springfield, April 2 (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Holland of West Springfield will observe the 61st anniversary of their marriage tomorrow. Both are natives of New York State. They have four children, 11 grandchildren and 22 great-grandchildren.

THE EASTER PARADE of a decade ago was an event. It marked a definite debut of all that was new in costumes, hats and shoes. Easter still comes on a definite date, but the file of fashion is constantly changing. Milady no longer waits for the seasons to change—she dresses as the mood moves her—despite the weather's discrepancies. And we are always ready with advanced styles to suit each new whim, which accounts in good measure for the fact that Thayer McNeil shoes rank in the aristocracy of footwear, marching in the daily or Easter parade. Need we mention the well-known Thayer McNeil value?

Dives to His Death as Wife Wins Last 'Pot'

New York, April 2 (INS)—"If I don't win this pot, I'll jump out of the window."

Thus spoke John Taber, 31, a salesman, when he picked up a straight in a friendly five-and-ten-cent poker game at the home of Robert Miller, a friend.

"Yes, you will," derided the other players, Miller and the wives of the two men.

After the draw, Taber and his wife kept raising each other and the Millers dropped out. Taber finally called. He displayed his straight.

"No good," said his wife, "I've got a full house."

"Let's see it," he demanded.

Mrs. Taber laughed, pocketed the money, and threw her cards into the discards, face down.

A violent quarrel followed. Taber stepped into the next room. There was a crash. The others ran to the window and saw Taber writhing on the pavement of the alleyway one story below. He was dead when an ambulance arrived.

2 DYING, 13 ARE HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENTS

A woman and a girl are dying, thirteen persons are nursing injuries and one man is held by the police today following auto accidents in the Back Bay, Malden, Melrose and Brockton.

Dorothy Beazley, 22 of Astor st., Back Bay, is most seriously hurt. Her name was placed on the danger list at the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital following a crash at Brookline ave. and Riverway, Back Bay. She is suffering from fractured pelvis and internal injuries.

She was riding with her brother-in-law, Stanley J. Manette of Bickerstaff st., Back Bay, when they were in collision with a machine driven by Philip C. Rutledge, son of Prof. George Rutledge of M. I. T. Manette and his wife and Mr and Mrs. Alfred Greenough were also treated for injuries.

Agnes Donnelly of 15 Upham rd., Cambridge, is dying in Brockton Hospital from internal injuries after an accident at South Easton. George Brown of 111 Mountford st., Back Bay, driver of the car, is now charged with driving under the influence of liquor.

At West Foster and Myrtle sts., Melrose, Miss Stella Legg of 26 Warren st., her father, Clifford Legg, her brother, Robert, and George Melville of 155 Myrtle st., all of Melrose, suffered cuts and broken limbs when a coupe and touring car collided.

Mrs. Arthur W. Chesterton of Babcock st., Brookline, received a fractured cheekbone and several fractured ribs in another accident. Thomas Bradford of White pl., Mr. Chesterton and Roy W. Gilbert of Bay State rd., were injured also.

At Brockton, Michael Kavanaugh of 55 Taylor ave. suffered a crushed chest and broken ribs when he was caught between two trucks as he cranked one.

INFANT AND MATERNAL MORTALITY DECREASES

Washington, April 2 (AP)—A decline in infant and maternal mortality rates in the United States was pointed out by Secretary Davis of the Labor Department as the outstanding achievement of the children's bureau in the last year. In an address before the fifth annual conference of state directors of maternity and infancy work the secretary said that several states showed a decline in rural maternal mortality in the period of 1922 to 1926.

COOLIDGE SEES BOYS FLY THEIR TOY PLANES

Washington, April 2 (AP)—President Coolidge today witnessed a miniature air contest on the White House lawn. Tiny airplane models built and operated by four Detroit youths were flown with disastrous results for two of them that landed beyond reach in a poplar tree. The boys were Aram Abgarian, indoor endurance record holder; Jack Loughner, outdoor champion; Charles Lybvig, national indoor champion, and William Chaffee, former holder of the indoor record.

"PHANTOM BROKER" CASE WILL GO TO GRAND JURY

Disposition of the case of John F. Mullen, youthful "phantom telephone broker," was delayed a day today by Judge Sullivan, following Mullen's plea of guilty on charges of larceny of $12,000 from four Fall River school teachers. Mullen is on bail of $8000. Judge Sullivan stated the court would decline jurisdiction and present the case to the grand jury.

FAIR AND WARMER BEST "GUESS" FOR 36 HOURS

Official weather sharps never hazard guesses in their professional work, but Meteorologist George A. Loveland of the local bureau today was forced to do so when the regular morning forecast from Washington became "lost" on its way to Boston.

WALES TOSSED OFF BY HORSE; 26TH TIME

London, April 2 (INS)—The Prince of Wales today added two more troubles to the long list that marks his career as an equestrian.

The prince was riding at Hawthorn Hill in the race for the Welsh Guards challenge cup. He fell at the first fence, but remounted his horse and by a splendid burst of speed caught up with the other riders.

Two fences from the finish the prince fell again. He did not attempt to finish the race.

Every rider in the race fell from his horse.

So far as records now show the Prince has had a total of 26 falls, including today's two. The list shows 12 in 1924, one in 1925, two in 1926, in one of which he fractured his collarbone; three in 1927, in one of which he sprained his left wrist, and eight thus far in 1928.

The race today was over a three-mile steeplechase course, and, as usual, the Prince held the lead to the first fence, when he took a fall that enabled two other competitors to head him.

The Prince remounted and made up the ground, and when the two leaders fell at the last fence but one, Wales appeared to have the race safe. But Miss Muffet again threw the royal jockey, at the same time knocking herself out temporarily.

Meantime the two other riders remounted and finished the course, Col. T Rose Prince taking first place and P. S. Akroyd, second.

Wales waited until Miss Muffett had recovered sufficiently, then rode her back to the paddock.

TYSON PENSION BILL SCORED BY MINORITY

Washington, April 2 (AP) A minority report charging the Tyson emergency officers' retirement bill would discriminate against the rank and file of enlisted men of the World War was filed in the House today by Representatives Vincent (Rep.) of Michigan and Rankin (Dem.) of Mississippi. The veterans committee has reported the bill by a vote of 8 to 7.

The minority report said the proposed legislation would grant pensions of from $93 to $375 a month to men, many of whom now are drawing salaries from the federal Government all the way up to $10,000 a year—and possibly more.

LYNN AUTO AGENCY NEAR POLICE STATION ROBBED

Thieves worked within 40 feet of Lynn police headquarters and escaped with cash running into four figures, it was revealed today, when the auto agency of Frank H. Van Blarcom was opened for business. Van Blarcom refused to state the amount taken from the two wrecked safes.

The break was discovered by John Yancy, janitor, who found the office strewn with papers. A squad of police went across the courtyard that separates headquarters from the Van Blarcom plant and secured a number of fingerprints.

ELEVEN REBELS SLAIN IN MEXICAN BATTLE

Mexico City, April 2 (AP)—Special dispatches from Guadalajara say that eleven insurgents were killed and three taken prisoners in a battle with federal troops yesterday at Palenque Hill. The insurgents were commanded by a widely known chieftain named El Catorce.

Other engagements also were reported at Union De San Antinio and at Refugio ranch. The casualties were not stated but the insurgents were dispersed.

THIRTY ESCAPE FROM BLAST IN COAL MINE

Charleston, W. Va., April 2 (AP) Thirty men escaped from the No. 2 mine of the Keystone Coal & Coke Company at Keystone, following an explosion there today, R. M. Lambie, chief of the state mining department, was advised by William Wilson, superintendent of the mine.

Wilson told Lambie that so far as he knew no fatalities resulted from the blast.

AUTO HITS GAS MAIN; FOUR BURNED; ONE DEAD

White Plains, N. Y., April 2 (AP) One man was burned to death, two others were probably fatally burned and another slightly burned today when their closed automobile broke a temporary gas main at the roadside just outside the city, the gas catching fire and trapping them in their car. The man killed was James Brady, Elmsford restaurant proprietor.

MAURICE'S WIDOW CALLS OFF PLAN TO WED SABINO

New York, April 2 (INS)—"Strictly business" will be the order of things between Eleanor Ambrose and her dancing partner, Charles Sabino in the future. The widow of the late Maurice Mouvet today confirmed the report that her engagement to Sabino is broken. However, the pair will continue their professional partnership, she said, and their friendship is intact.

Uncle Sam Giving All the World a Chance to Ride

Washington, April 2 (AP)—The steady increase in exports of the American automobile industry brought the February total of shipments abroad of automotive products from the United States to $36,537,000 in February. This amount is 13 per cent over valuation of automotive exports in February last year.

Canada is still the leading market for American automobile material, but Argentina, Belgium and British South Africa are becoming markets of increasing importance. February imports of automobiles were $12,000 greater than those for the same month last year.

150 GRANITE CUTTERS ON STRIKE IN CONCORD, N. H.

Concord, N. H., April 2 (AP)—One hundred and fifty granite cutters went on strike today because of a disagreement with employers over a new wage contract. Representatives of both parties went into a conference with United States Labor Conciliator Richard A. Brown and a settlement was expected late today or tomorrow. The cutters were granted an increase of $1 a day on their previous wage of $8, but were unable to agree on working hours

El Paso, Tex., April 2 (AP)—Plans were made today to take Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, to California Wednesday for his health.

NAB SON OF COX, HARVARD MAN, IN TRAIN ROW

New London, Ct., April 2 (AP)—On his way from Boston to New York to aid his brother, James M Cox, Jr., a Yale student, who was under arrest in the latter city charged with driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor, John W. Cox, 21, a brother, and Harvard student, was taken from a train here and locked up overnight on a breach of the peace charge.

Both men are sons of James M. Cox of Dayton, O., former governor of Ohio and former Democratic nominee for the presidency.

Today, in court, after Cox was found guilty, judgment was suspended by Judge S. Victor Prince that Cox might continue to Pelham, N. Y., where he said his mother awaited him

The testimony of Conductor F. H. Clemens was that John Cox insisted on riding in the club car of the train, had only his coach ticket, and no money for Pullman fare. When he was ordered into another car, it was alleged he became abusive and arrest followed.

BEGS FOR DEATH AS WORCESTER WIFE-SLAYER

New York, April 2 (INS)—Snatched from his little truck farm outside Warsaw, in Poland, John Kroll, 65, was brought back today aboard the Cunarder Carinthia to answer for the murder of his wife in Worcester, Mass., three years ago.

"I killed her and I want to go to the electric chair—not prison for life," said Kroll when he came ashore in custody of Lieut. Robert T. Hardy of the Worcester police department.

Kroll is the first man to be returned to the United States under the new extradition treaty with Poland. He was shadowed for some time on the small farm he had purchased after fleeing this country, but was not arrested until the treaty agreement had gone through.

He was then returned by way of Danzig, a free port on the Baltic Straits, and not through Germany as the United States has no extradition agreement with Germany.

On May 13, 1925, Kroll stabbed his 55-year-old wife 29 times. He killed her on their farm outside of Worcester in the presence of their 13 children. They had been divorced a year before and his wife had insisted on living on the farm, which was in his name. After the murder he purchased a false passport for $100, police say, and fled to his native country, Poland.

HUB ART EDITOR WRITES PLAY

Two members of the Boston Evening American art staff have helped to embellish a new play, written by Hinson Stiles, art editor of the Boston Daily Advertiser, and released to the public today by Richard G. Badger, Boston publisher.

The play, "The Song of the Sea," is a drama of New England dwellers along the seacoast. It is a tragedy in four acts, with a dramatic love story woven into the action.

John Maguire, Boston American staff artist, created the beautiful etching that serves as frontispiece. The decorative jacket design is by William Kolliker, also a Boston American staff artist.

The play was written by Stiles when he was a pupil of Professor George P. Baker at the famous "47 Workshop," then at Harvard College.

Stiles graduated from the Everett grammar schools and later studied at Boston University and Brown University before attending Harvard College.

The play, a poignant and dramatic story of New England folk, is a study of the fatal influence of a man, disillusioned and embittered by hate, on the lives of all those who come under his power. There is the theme of a beautiful romance of two young people, developed to its tragic and inevitable conclusion in a drama of swift-moving passions.

FRANCE CONSIDERS NEW WAR DEBT SETTLEMENT

Paris, April 2 (AP)—Intimation that the Poincare government is seriously considering a plan whereby railroad and industrial bonds turned over by Germany as guarantee of payment of the Dawes plan annuity might be commercialized so that France and other creditors of Germany may realize cash on them has been given by Premier Poincare.

Speaking at Carcassone, the Premier said that with proper regard for French security and rights to reparations France would "willingly accept, when the time comes, arrangements which by marketing of the bonds will permit our recent allies, Germany and us to settle our debts more rapidly."

TELLS HOW ADMIRAL ABUSED BAND MASTER

Gibraltar, April 2 (AP)—Court-martial of Commander H. M. Daniel growing out of the now celebrated Royal Oak affair continued today aboard the airplane carrier Eagle with Commander Daniel holding the center of the stage.

The commander discussed the dance at Malta at which Rear Admiral Bernard St. G. Collard is alleged to have abused the bandmaster and had the Marine band replaced by jazz musicians, an action which apparently capped the climax in a controversy with Commander Daniel. He reiterated he had heard Admiral Collard refer to the bandmaster with an offensive epithet.

SEE "SISTER LOVE" IN STRANGE SUICIDE PACT

Logansport, Ind., April 2 (INS)—Theory of a suicide pact was advanced today in explanation of the deaths of Esther Hoover, 22, and her sister, Sena, 18. The latter's body was recovered in Eel River. The body of Esther had been found Saturday in a millrace nearby. An autopsy revealed that Sena would soon have become a mother.

The theory of a suicide pact was evolved after friends and neighbors recalled Esther's devotion to her younger sister. It is believed Sena confided her troubles to Esther and expressed the wish to destroy herself. Finding Sena had not the courage to die alone, it is thought Esther volunteered to go with her.

WILKINS TO HOP FOR TOP OF THE WORLD APRIL 5

San Francisco, April 2 (AP)—The San Francisco Examiner says its short wave radio station has received a message from Capt. George H. Wilkins, Arctic explorer, at Point Barrow, Alaska, announcing his intention to hop off there April 5, in an effort to fly to Spitzbergen.

Shopping with Priscilla Price

Dearest Anne:—

The Easter Tide is sweeping through the land, and is filling the shop windows with Bunnies, Easter Eggs and exquisite fragrant Easter Lilies. Gorgeous lavender and yellow like beams of elusive sunshine add their radiance to the riotous color which gleams all around us. The happy world responds and with joyous hearts they join the early shoppers, remembering that

It's Smart

To be thrifty for Easter as well as to be perfectly gowned. That's why more and more modern women are buying their dresses at Silver's Specialty Shop, 59 Temple Place, Room 502, where values, styles and fashions predominate — where one's money's worth can be had for their clothes for informal or formal occasions—and where you have an excellent selection to choose from. Silver's Easter coats priced at $22.50 and up are new and smart and his dresses from $15.00 up are just the right garments for the early shopper. You are sure to be satisfied!

Walk Lightly

and comfortably in the Easter Parade! It's entirely possible for all our friends to do so. That is if they will make a visit to my Foot Specialist, Dr. Allen P. Saul, Room 312, New Studio Bldg., 110 Tremont St. First he'll give their tired feet a scientific treatment for corns and callouses. Then, if necessary, he'll sell them one of his almost invisible $6.75 silk elastic stockings. And last, but indeed not least, he'll fit them to a pair of his arch support, fitted to measure, new Easter shoes. And each and every one of them will walk with joy!

The Organ Sounds

the scent of "Easter Lilies" fills the church, and we know that it is Marion's wedding day. She wears an exquisite bridal gown, all shimmering white, in the soft lights, and a lovely bridal veil which came from Mendelsohn's, Room 506, 59 Temple Place There are beautiful bridal clothes there to be hired for $12.00 and up, or for sale, and also lovely dresses. The dresses are $5.00 and up for hiring, but there are many slightly used dresses for sale at reasonable prices. What care we if they are slightly used with so many good cleaning houses at every corner?

is ready to give you an "Easter" permanent to suit your personality! Skillfully he'll get you ready for the hot summer months with delightful waves created by him to suit your own personal style. Of course you'll want an "Easter" permanent. He transforms with magic fingers gray or faded hair to its natural shade and is especially successful in treating hair spoiled by harsh dyes. He has made a scientific study of the infinite details of his work and his 35 years of experience have made his methods expert. Call Capitol 5831 for appointments. L. Max, 154 Boylston St., entire 3d floor.

'La Blanche Hat Shoppe' is a little out of the shopping district, but oh, how very glad you'll be to go out there. It's at 165-A Huntington Avenue. Under the able managership of Miss Lena C. Earle this shop is a perfect bower of Easter beauty with its rare display of smart hats. She'll make your hat to order, fitting it lightly to your head or copy inexpensively an expensive model for you. She has smart hats for the miss and for her older sister, and knows just the right hat for you. Easter would not be Easter without a visit to "La Blanche Hat Shoppe!"

The Atmosphere of Old Spain

Is not all across the seas, it's right here in Boston, at the Arch-Aid Shoe Shop, 110 Boylston Street, right next door to the Colonial Theater. Come with me to this long buff-walled room with its artistic tapestries and its exquisite tan reed furniture and soft carpet. Then by the gleam of pewter lamps we'll look at shoes, such shoes as you have never before seen, Anne, because there have been none like them here. These exquisite Arch-Aid shoes are individually fitted to each customer and provide foot comfort and the last word in style. They are made from reptile skins, or attractive hides, in genuine python snake $15, real baby alligator, $12.50, lizard, $13.50 and $14.00, made by the Menihan Company, one of the oldest concerns in the country and the largest maker of reptile-skinned shoes. Think of black and tan lizard, python, red water snake, gray water snake, and baby alligator shoes in this alluring atmosphere. Easter is the time when our friends all want to look and feel their best and their thoughts turn to beautiful clothes—and then to Menihan's Arch-Aid Shoes, exquisitely attractive.

My Easter Gift to You

my Anne, comes straight across the seas from sunny Italy. It's a hand carved cameo ring and has traveled all this way to you from foreign lands to give you happiness on Easter Day. We'll call the lady carved upon it our white lady of happiness. At the Cameo Department, Filene's Jewelry Shop, 1st floor, we'll find these rings priced at $4.85. They come in six styles, 14 karat white or green gold settings with full figures or head designs, priced much lower than usual for this quality. The brooches are rare and exquisitely carved in that much desired carnelian color, with their delicate lacy settings of 10 or 14 karat white or green gold with pendant top and safety clasps. The small size priced at $5.85 in 14 karat white or green gold settings with heads of classical or modern design, is priced at $4.85 in 10 karat settings. The larger $7.85 size in 14 karat white or gold settings is beautifully carved in many designs and is $6.85 in 10 karat settings. The large size comes at $9.85 in 14 karat settings with exquisitely cut heads in many shapes. There are many more choice heads, "Twin heads," and scenes, of oval and oblong shapes. What rare and exquisite gifts for Easter!

Listen, My Anne,

and you shall hear, not the story of Paul Revere, as you may well expect with April 19th so near at hand, but the story of "Sorosis" Shoes. The Shepard Stores on Temple Place was their first home here in Boston, thirty years ago. Then they moved to Park Square, but six years ago they came back to Shepard's and there they have remained with evergrowing popularity through the years. Priced from $7.50 to $16.50 they fit perfectly, are snug in the heel, hug the arch, and slenderize the foot. The new "Littleway" process perfected by Mr. A. E. Little is built in every shoe and guarantees flexibility. Sorosis Shoes are famous for fashion and fit and come in all the new styles and colors so fashionable for Easter and Springtime wear The new beige, marron, tans and grays are very lovely, and the evening slippers in daintiest gold and silver are exquisite indeed. I know you'll agree with me when you see them that they well deserve the popularity they have gained and you'll know just how Molly feels when she says, "Oh, that I might own all the Sorosis Shoes I'd like to have!" You'll adore them, too, as I do.

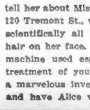
"They Keep Their Promise" of personal loveliness which is near to your heart and your happiness. I have found the secret of keeping the skin soft and lovely in spite of March winds and April showers. My secret is put up in fascinating tan and blue jars so attractive that you'll want to buy them all, containing the Kathleen Mary Quinlan Beauty Preparations. At this season of the year you'll enjoy using the Cleansing Oil, Skin Stimulant, Skin Cleanser, Facial Oil or Skin Food, priced from 75c to $1.50 a jar, and sold exclusively by R. H. Stearns Co., 140 Tremont St.

Miss Modern

Watches the styles, she desires the smartest clothes to adorn her most attractive self because she wants people to look at her twice as she gaily walks in the Easter Parade. And so Miss Modern visits Evelyn's at 8 Winter St., 3rd floor, because there she will find lovely frocks to suit her every mood. Gorgeous prints for afternoon, chiffons for the more formal affair, and evening dresses in softest newest colors. These dresses are priced at $8.95, $12.95, $14.95 and up and come in most select styles and all sizes. No wonder Miss Modern chooses Evelyn's.

What a Shame



it is that Alice doesn't take care of the superfluous hair on her face. It's really her own fault that she has so much of it. She pulls the hairs herself and the tiny cell at the root of the hair breaks and scatters and makes a number of hairs where one was before. I wish you would tell her about Miss E. Sparkes, at 120 Tremont St., who will remove scientifically all the superfluous hair on her face. She also has a machine used especially for the treatment of your legs which is a marvelous invention. Be sure and have Alice visit her.

An Hour and a Half of permanent wave—without a moment of discomfort! Why, a playful tweak of your hair would hurt you more than the whole of a "Le Mur" permanent given by Strati, at 41 Winter St., 7th floor. It's so beautiful when it's finished — so perfectly adapted to your face and your features—so—so very becoming! Strati has moved into new sunshiny quarters where there is plenty of room for all our friends. You may phone Liberty 9443 for appointment for waves before the Easter rush begins!

Exquisite and Dainty

as soft and fresh as the morning mist is our Beth's skin. I know one reason why! She uses Houbigant's bath powder, and its elusive fragrance seems to belong just to her; yet it may belong to us, too! In Jordan Marsh Company's toilet goods section (on the street floor of the Annex, you know) let's select Houbigant's "Subtilite," "Mon Boudoir," or "Ideal." A large size box of any one of these odeurs is only $1.75! They were formerly $2.75 each, before this size was discontinued. You'll adore such perfect bath powders, Anne!

Consider With Me

a problem in stocking buying! Sue bought a pair of stockings for $1.50, tore them, and it cost her 40c to have them mended making them cost her $1.90. Wise Betty bought a pair of $1.50 stockings at Landfield's, 8 Winter St., 3d floor. She tore them, but Landfield has free mending service on stockings purchased there and it cost her nothing to have them repaired. Subtract the 40c for mending that Sue spent from the price of Betty's stockings. They cost her $1.10. Follow Betty's example and buy Landfield's exquisite stockings and enjoy the free mending service.

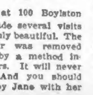
Rose Lights Gleam

Through rose curtains in a delightfully attractive little shop and entering in you instinctively know that you are in the Mme. Rose Beauty Shoppe at 110 Tremont St., Room 322. She is giving us a Special Permanent Wave offer for Easter week of $10.00 including shampoo and wave set. She does very fine work and your hair will come out just like a lovely marcel with no kinks or frizzes. She also gives marcel waves, French curling, scalp treatment, facial massage, manicures, eyebrow arching, hair tinting and expert bobbing. Call Liberty 2541 for appointments.

Just a Step

around the corner from Summer St. we go for our "Easter Undies," to Marion Desmond's at 38 Chauncy St., Room 510. She has a most attractive shop with lovely linens at very low prices and soft crepe underthings that will delight your heart. Heavy crepe step-ins are priced at $1.95, some lace trimmed. The crepe slips are truly a bargain, with deep hems, tailored and lace trimmed, and some of the dearest ones with picot ruffles, all priced at $2.95. She has a full line of Jade full fashioned stockings at $1.35. And last, but not least, write or call regarding her interesting Hope Chest Plan.

Poor Little Jane!



She thought she just couldn't enjoy Easter because of something that troubled her. She had all sorts of new clothes, but they didn't help one single bit because her face was literally covered with superfluous hair. But little Jane called Hancock 3233 and made an appointment with the Tricho System at 100 Boylston Street. She made several visits and now she's truly beautiful. The superfluous hair was removed painlessly and by a method indorsed by doctors. It will never grow again. And you should see happy, happy Jane with her soft white skin.

In Rare Display

for Easter and with colors most alluring, dresses, hats and coats await our visit, Anne, at the Hugh J. Bradley, Inc. Women's Wearing Apparel Shop at 9 St. James Avenue, Park Square Bldg. There are figured prints, georgettes, crepes and rare evening dresses so beautiful that you'll want them all, priced from $15.00 to $29.50, and some on sale at $13.75. This shop carries smart millinery and a full line of exquisite stockings. So many things in one shop to fill our hearts with utter joy and dreams of the Easter Parade!

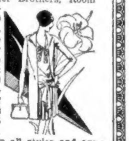
Easter Glory

shines from the "Chic" Gown Shoppe, 41 Winter St., 5th floor, where colorful smart dresses vie with one another for your preference. There are prints and georgettes and crepes in all the new colors, violet, billiard green and rare blues priced at $15.00. Evening dresses are gorgeous beyond words and drastically reduced in price. There are some smart moderately priced coats, too. Miss "Chic" modern girl will be dressed in the very smartest styles if she visits this shop and takes advantage of the clothes she finds there.

Our Little Friend

Helen Lynch is especially successful with hair dyeing. She dyes your hair just like its natural shade, so if Father Time is starting to give any of our friends gray hair tell them about her. She gives lovely soft marcels, and her fine Frederic Vita-Tonic permanents for only $12.00 are unsurpassed for real satisfaction in permanents. This includes, of course, a shampoo and finger wave. Evening appointments may be had by calling Liberty 0036 and her office is Room 324, 110 Tremont Street. You'll quite enjoy your visit there, I'm sure.

Easter Frills



And fancies and adorable dresses in all the new and colorful blending for spring wear are on display at Parker Brothers, Room 309, New Studio Bldg., 110 Tremont St. There are some lovely ensembles in silk priced at $22.50, and a fine selection of dresses priced from $10.75 to $29.50. Coats come in all styles and are priced from $19.75 to $47.50. In this rare apparel shop you can get smart garments ready-to-wear and made-to-order. And there's a ten-payment plan which will take care of those who have to watch their budget. For more information call Capitol 8243.

Just One Price!

What a treat awaits you at the Bandbox Millinery, 568 Washington St. With but one price, $5.00, in vogue you have the choice of the store—you can choose the prettiest hat and the one you like best and know it will cost you no more. The Easter display at the Bandbox is unsurpassed for stylish hats. Shop here and you will always be wearing the very latest in millinery style creations. With Easter but one week away it is wise to make your trip to this little shop as early as you possibly can.

Beauty Disappears

in some women. Beautiful women are first plump, then they find themselves getting overweight and they reduce. This eternal triangle wrinkles the neck and folds wasting tissue. Age makes its bow to those who accept this condition as permanent. How can it be corrected? By regular use of the Post Beauty Course, which restores elasticity to the skin. When contracted the skin reproduces the youthful contour of the face and neck. You look years younger. $5 demonstration facial for $2 at Post Institute, 6 Beacon St., Room 910, telephone Call Haymarket 1647 for appointments.

NEW SHIP BILL LINKS MARINE TO NAVY

Washington, April 2 (INS)—The American merchant marine will be constituted the right arm of the Navy and linek with national defense under a shipping bill being written by a House merchant marine sub-committee.

Shunting the long-standing argument over government or private ownership into the background, the House marine experts determined to stand or fall on the position that the Lnavy needs auxiliary strength.

The sub-committee indicated it would adopt almost wholly the reserve provisions of the White bill. This measure empowers the Secretary of the Navy to enroll 25,000 officers and men of the merchant marine in the reserve and pay them not more than 6½ months of the pay for corresponding ranks and grades in the navy.

Financial experts of the government have estimated the policy will cost the government $5,000,000 a year.

American Is Again First in Big News

FIRST with the big news, first with important pictures of the week!

When the Concord murder "broke" on Saturday, it was the Boston Evening American that published the first story identifying the victim as Marguerite I. Stewart.

The first picture of the girl was published in the afternoon editions of the Boston Evening American.

The American gave the public a full page of pictures, including members of the girl's family who had given their stories to this paper. One other afternoon paper published a few of these pictures two hours after the American.

In the other big stories of the week—the Legislature "expose," on Thursday—the American was first with the story of Representative Coyne's resignation. When Peaches Browning was named in a New York tangle the first story was flashed in this paper.

While other papers and wire services were searching for Arnold Sullivan, Beverly flier, who was "lost" in Pennsylvania, the American was carrying a story that he had been found.

If you want the story first—read it in the American.

FIRST WITH THE BIG NEWS AND PICTURES!

HOME BREWING ON WANE, SAYS VOLSTEAD

St. Paul, Minn., April 2 (INS)—Home brewing is America "is on the wane," according to Andrew J. Volstead, father of the prohibition law. He said in an interview today that he could prove that statement to be a fact "regardless of what enemies of the dry law say to the contrary."

"Sale of home brewing material equipment is falling off, for one thing," he declared. "Glance through the daily papers. You'll observe that where you used to see pages of advertisements for malt syrups you see only an occasional small display now.

"Look in the windows of the stores along your main streets. Remember the displays of malt syrups? Where are they today? They are gone."

People don't like the trouble of making home brew, Mr. Volstead asserted. Then, too, they haven't the patience to wait the necessary time for it to become palatable.

Sale of manufactured beer is also falling off. He also claimed that the much-discussed prescription business is on the downward grade.

"We are gradually cutting down on the quantity of alcohol allotted to hospitals. We may in the near future arrest patrons of night clubs having liquor in their possession. The law gives us a right to do this.

Volstead, who is legal adviser to thenorthwest prohibition enforcement department here, declared that the dry law is better and more scientifically enforced in Minneapolis and St. Paul than in any other section of the country.

U. S. NAVY GETS GREATEST 'SUB'

Portsmouth, N. H., April 2 (INS)—The Leviathan of the undersea world, the United States V4 submarine, was placed in commission today at the local navy yard. The new submarine is capable of laying mines. It will carry a crew of 80 men and 8 offices.

The submersible is equipped with a powerful radio apparatus, a motion picture machine, postoffice and complete medical and surgical supplies.

The V4 is the largest sub in the world and is of a new type.

Coffee at Home Like the Ritz

GO to the Ritz-Carlton for a jubilee. You expect the utmost in cuisine, and you get it. When you come to the coffee, it is La Touraine.

Go to New York, Philadelphia, Chicago. Wherever you find the utmost in table delights, there is La Touraine.

Visit the finest tea rooms. Travel on extra-fare trains. Seek the utmost, morning, noon or night, and the coffee is La Touraine.

That coffee is selected by experts. They compare countless blends. Cost doesn't matter. The whole idea is to please.

If you like that exquisite coffee, why not serve it in your home? It costs no more than other high-grade coffees. Why not serve the most delightful coffee men have yet devised? You might as well have the best.

You are doing an injustice to you and yours if the Ritz-Carlton serves a better coffee than you do. Or if you ever find a better coffee elsewhere. It cannot be done, if you serve La Touraine.

Ritz-Carlton—Boston

Why La Touraine Coffee Won

Please remember that La Touraine Coffee won the top place in New England, the birthplace of fine coffees. It holds that place. The verdict of New England favors La Touraine.

The fame of this coffee spread. Great hotels in other cities wanted what New England loves. Now, wherever you go for the finest, La Touraine Coffee is served.

The reason is that, in 21 years, we have perfected a matchless blend. The men who perfected it still control it. The pride-coffees of four countries are brought together here.

There may be a better blend, but nobody yet has found it. No other blend has so appealed to connoisseurs.

Why not serve it on your table? You might as well have the best.

This exquisite La Touraine costs no more than other high-grade coffees. When you serve it, no hotel in the country serves a better coffee than you do.

Buy La Touraine Coffee in the Bean and have your grocer grind it fresh for you.

For percolator have it ground as fine as coarse granulated sugar.

You might as well have the best

READING SAYS HE'LL FIGHT LEGISLATIVE COMMITTEE TO FINISH

LOSES BATTLE TO EXCLUDE L. A. W. EVIDENCE FROM PROBE

and counsel for the L. A. W., an acceptance corporation, Reading, according to testimony, ruled there was no necessity for an investigation of the acceptance organization.

The common goal was the intended embarrassment of the attorney-general and possible impeachment proceedings before the Senate.

The chief witness in both cases was Dist.-Atty. Charles B. Rugg of Worcester.

Reading lost the first skirmish in what promises to be a long drawn-out battle, possibly ending in impeachment. Representative James, chairman of the special investigating committee, made a curt ruling, allowing the introduction of testimony regarding Reading's activities before he took office as Attorney-General.

To objections of Reading's counsel, James replied that he would enter no objections.

Dist. Atty. Rugg's testimony regarding the Ellsworth papers, which were lost in the attorney-general's office and found there after a plea of nolo by Ellsworth had been accepted, created a stir in the hearing room, which was crowded to capacity.

Rugg said he learned the day before Ellsworth was to be tried that the papers had been lost at the State House when he communicated by telephone with Vincent J. Zeo of the attorney general's office.

Some time after the loss of the papers and while the Ellsworth case was still pending, Reading called him on the phone, Rugg testified.

ASKED ABOUT LOST PAPERS

"He asked me if I had a case pending against Ellsworth. I said I had and told him about the loss of the papers. He told me that someone had been into his office to see about the case, someone representing Ellsworth. He said this man had been in the Legislature with him (Reading) and that he was going to turn the case over to Mr. Lewis (an assistant).

"A week later Mr. Lewis conferred with me and said Ellsworth was willing to testify in other cattle cases for the government, especially in a case against a man named Fuller in Springfield and he said he thought it would be inappropriate for me to proceed for sentence against Ellsworth in the Worcester case.

"I told him that the same lawyer had been engaged in both cases, in both the Ellsworth and Fuller cases, and that any evidence that Ellsworth would give would be discounted."

THE MISSING FOLDER

Rugg declared the envelope containing the papers was a "large folder." Asked if he had ever learned who had them last before they were reported missing, he replied:

"I understand Mr. Hammond and Mr. Holton took them to the attorney-general's office . . ."

Letters which passed between Rugg, Reading and Frank P. Ryan of Worcester with relation to the L. A. W. organization were introduced and identified by Rugg.

They disclosed that on January 24, 1928, Ryan wrote to Rugg seeking the true financial condition of the company. Ryan wrote that the "situation is one that demands immediate action on the part of some state official or the court."

Rugg forwarded this letter to Reading, and Reading replied to Rugg, saying "with reference to Ryan's silly suggestion that you take immediate steps to conserve the assets of the United L. A. W. Corporation, Mr. Ryan might be advised that his remedy, if any, appears to be in the equity rather than the criminal court."

CONFERENCE WITH READING.

Rugg told of a conference held in Worcester on December 10, at which Reading, a Mr. Gaskill and himself were present.

Reading first told of being on the verge of a nervous breakdown, Rugg said. "He then told about L. A. W. . . . He gave a summary. This was that Mr. Reading had been a director and counsel for the Boston L. A. W.

"He cautioned me against taking a directorate or counsel position in any financial corporation while I was in office.

"He said the L. A. W. parent company was in Worcester with some 20 subsidiaries in New England. Reading represented, he said, all the subsidiaries except one. . . . His errand to me was to see if, in my opinion, there was any criminal phase in connection with the Wolfe or Worcester company. . . . I said that on the story as told I could see no criminal action."

Prior to testimony regarding the "cattle fraud" papers, George M. Stearns, president of the Gulf City Improvement Association, had testified that Reading was treasurer of that organization upon its incorporation in 1925. Stearns said he did not know where the principal offices of the association were nor was he sure that he was a director nor did he know what properties the corporation owned.

No mention of the Decimo Club, Reading's association with which resulted in the investigation launched today, was made at the early session.

SUBMIT L. A. W. PAPERS

Maj. Thomas J. Hammond offered certified photostatic copies of articles of incorporation and other papers in connection with the incorporation of the L. A. W. Corporation of Worcester. Hammond said: "In the course of the hearing this corporation will be referred to as the parent company or Worcester company."

Defense counsel asked to see these papers also.

"You don't offer all these?" asked Anderson.

"Yes. All," replied Hammond.

Anderson—"Some of these are outside the State."

Hammond—"I offer first the articles of organization of the L. A. W. Acceptance Corp., of Worcester, filed October 17, 1925."

Chairman James then ruled that Hammond might offer all the papers.

Atty Parsons, for Reading, then said: "Mr. Reading has never seen all these papers offered. They are back of the scope of the time of the investigation order."

Reading did not become Attorney-General until January, 1927. Parsons then asked that objections be taken and asked that his rights be saved.

Chairman James: "No objection will be noted, no rights will be saved."

Hammond then offered certified papers on file of the L. A. W. Acceptance Corporation of Boston, which, he said, would be referred to as the Boston subsidiary or Boston company. James ordered them admitted as Exhibit 3.

FIRST WITNESS CALLED

The first witness was then called by Hammond. He was George M. Stearns, 73 Tremont st., an attorney, living in Belmont.

Q.—Are you now or have you been an officer in the Gulf City Improvement Association? A.—I am now.

Q.—In what capacity? A.—President.

In answer to further questions, Stearns said he could not tell exact date of the incorporation, but that it was some time in 1925. Asked where it was incorporated, he answered, "Florida, I think."

Stearns said he did not know where its principal office was located.

Stearns then testified that there were no directors' meetings that he knew of. He said, referring to the incorporation meeting: "I think that's the only meeting I ever attended."

READING WAS TREASURER.

Q.—Who were the officers of the organization at that time?

Atty. Anderson objected. Chairman James ruled that Hammond might proceed.

A.—Arthur K. Reading was treasurer and Ralph W. Stearns secretary and clerk.

Dist. Atty. Charles B. Rugg of Worcester, son of Chief Justice Rugg of the Supreme Court, was then called. Hammond declared he would inquire with reference to any conversation or correspondence that Rugg had with Atty.-Gen. Reading which involved the Ellsworth case at Worcester.

Dist. Atty. Rugg: "When I assumed office in January, 1927, there were pending on the docket of our court thirty-six indictments in cattle fraud cases. Each group had been indicted for larceny from the commonwealth and conspiracy to commit larceny.

"We had so many indictments that I arranged for a special session with the chief justice. I personally tried the first of these cases, Commonwealth against Jacobson and somebody else. In that trial I obtained a verdict of guilty on both indictments. I was then compelled to leave the Commonwealth in connection with an extradition case and was in the West for three weeks.

THE ELLSWORTH CASE.

"My office continued the trial of the cases, securing convictions in the second and third cases tried. Then all the remaining defendants except one group pleaded guilty to conspiracy and we agreed that if

WHOLESOME WHOLE WHEAT MAKES AN IDEAL HEALTH BREAD, SAYS MARTHA LEE

Recipe for Bread

WHEN the doctor orders a health bread—as so many doctors do—do you immediately think of a hard, dark, dry loaf? This seems to be many people's idea of health bread.

As a matter of fact, there's no finer health bread in the world than whole wheat bread, and this can be made by a recipe as easy as it is appetizing.

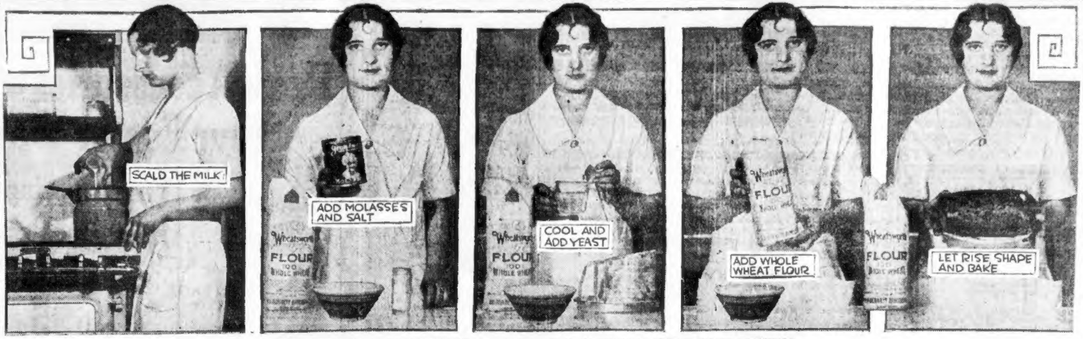
In the Martha Lee Kitchen we use a 100 per cent whole wheat flour that comes in a three and a half pound bag. This flour contains all the bran, vitamins, gluten, starch and mineral salt as contained in highest quality wheat. It is honestly cleaned before grinding and is suitable for all baking uses.

From it, we make this delicious whole wheat bread: Two cups milk, 6 tbsps. molasses, 1½ tsps salt, 1-3 of yeast, ¼ cup warm water, 2 cups sifted flour, 2½ cups whole wheat flour.

White flour enough to knead. Scald the milk and add the molasses and the salt. Cool to blood heat and add the yeast cake dissolved in water, the whole wheat flour and enough white flour to knead. Cover, let rise, shape into loaves, let rise again, and bake in a hot oven.

From this whole wheat flour we also make pie crust that is marvelously delicate and tender, and pop-overs and muffins that are amazingly good. Whole wheat and cookies have that wonderful griddle cakes, gingerbread, crullers nut-like flavor of the wheat grain.

This whole wheat flour, made only from selected wheat of the highest obtainable grade, is thoroughly cleaned by machinery and freshly ground, so it comes to you with all the native flavor and goodness of the grain—pure food in the very best sense of the term.



THIS WHOLE WHEAT BREAD IS VALUABLE IN NORMALIZING YOUR WEIGHT.

Tomatoade Can Be Prepared in a Jiffy

Drink to your own health with tomatoade. It is made in a jiffy by heating two cups of strained canned tomato juice and one-fourth cup sugar to boiling to dissolve the sugar. Add one-fourth cup lemon jjuice, one-half teaspoon Worcestershire sauce and chill. Serve very cold in cocktail glasses.

READING PROBE OPENS WITH L. A. W. CASE EVIDENCE

their exceptions were not sustained sentence was to be passed.

"The one case in which there was no plea was in the case of Joseph Ellsworth, who was said to have received the money in many instances."

He then said that two cases were argued on exceptions before the Supreme Court and that the exceptions were over-ruled. In connection with the trial of the cases at Worcester he said that he had received all the papers from the administration and finance office at the State House and that the papers in each case filled a folder. There were 35 or 36 folders in all.

PAPERS SENT TO BOSTON

After the trials were over, he said, Mr. Houghton and Mr. Hamlin of the office of administration and finance conferred with his assistant and took the papers back to Boston, with the exception of the folders containing the papers of Jacobson and Cohen, whose case was then before the Supreme Court.

"On August 30 I made arrangements to spend the day with my assistant, Mr. Brown. On that day I first learned that the papers in several cases were not in Worcester, including the papers in the Ellsworth case. The cases were coming up the next day. I called Mr. Zeo of the attorney general's office on the telephone and told him that I understood all the papers had been turned over to him or to Mr. Lewis of the same office. I tried to impress upon him the imperative necessity of their being in Worcester on that day by 10 a. m.

"He agreed he would make a thorough search of the office and I arranged for a motorcycle officer to bring them to Worcester.

"The next morning, the 31st, the papers were not found, and we disposed of the cases in which there were pleas of guilty.

Q.—When did you first receive information that the Ellsworth papers were missing? A.—During the day on August 30.

Q.—And all of the cases were disposed of except the Ellsworth case? A.—Yes.

TALKED WITH READING

Q.—Sometime after August did you have a conversation with the attorney-general about the Ellsworth case?

A.—After I discovered the loss of the papers the attorney-general called me on the telephone. I don't remember just when. He asked me if I had a case pending against Ellsworth. I said I had, and told him about the loss of the papers. He told me that someone had been into his office to see him about the case, someone representing Ellsworth. He said this man had been in the Legislature with him (Reading), and that he was going to turn the case over to Mr. Lewis.

A week later Mr. Lewis conferred with me and said that Ellsworth was willing to testify in other cattle cases for the government, especially in a case against a man named Fuller in Springfield.

RUGG TELLS OF WHISPERS

Dist. Atty. Rugg told of correspondence with the attorney-general regarding the lost papers. He said the first letter was written by him November 23, 1927, shortly after the October session of the Worcester court had adjourned. The letter was addressed: "Dear Arthur," and discussed the cattle fraud cases, particularly the case of Joseph Ellsworth, which had been lost. He said he told the attorney-general the case had not been disposed of because the papers were mislaid at the State House, having been given to a Mr. Holton.

"I told him," said the witness, "that the loss of the papers caused me serious embarrassment and I was unable to try the case. I told him there were whispers going around that influence had been exerted on me, and asked that he delegate someone to make a thorough search and investigation.

"I received a reply which said it was unfortunate the papers had been lost, and transmitting all the information which the Attorney-General's office had, consisting of data on the number of cattle, the number of reactions, etc. This letter was signed by Vincent J. Zeo, Assistant Attorney-General."

The witness said another letter was received from Zeo dated December 2, 1927, in which he said he had made a search for the missing folders. He agreed with Rugg that it was an embarrassing situation, and expressed the hope that the papers would turn up some time.

Attorney Hammond asked the witness about his visit to the Governor on February 28, but District Attorney Rugg was sidetracked and went back to the missing papers. He said he had no further conversation with the Attorney-General's office.

The witness explained that in the Ellsworth case he was forced to accept a plea of nolo, and that a fine of $200 was imposed.

In response to a question he said he conferred with Judges Thayer and Dillon before disposing of the case, which he said was getting "old and stale." The witness said that in the early part of the case he had refused to accept a plea of nolo.

SAW THE GOVERNOR

The witness said he went to see the Governor on Tuesday.

"I came to see him on a different matter," he said, "but he asked me about the cattle cases. I told him what was in the letters, and he sent for Asst. Atty.-Gen. Zeo. Zeo said the papers were found on a table in the office of Asst. Atty.-Gen. F. Delano Putnam."

Attorney Hammond: "Up to that time you had not been told the papers were found?"

Rugg: "I had not."

Representative Raster of the committee questioned Rugg as to whether he was in Worcester when the papers were discovered. The witness replied he was.

The witness was then questioned about the United L. A. W. of Worcester and an auxiliary company. He was asked if he had any conversation with Reading about these companies, and replied:

"Sometime during the week of November 6, 1927, I received a phone call from the attorney-general. He inquired if the Grand Jury was in session. I said, No, it had adjourned. He asked if I could call a special session.

"There never had been a special session of the Grand Jury at Worcester.

"Atty.-Gen. Reading said a big larceny from a big corporation of Worcester had been called to his attention. He said it might be necessary to call a special session of the Grand Jury. He said he would let me know later."

Dist.-Atty Rugg, further questioned by Hammond, said:

"On Saturday, December 10, the attorney-general called me by telephone. He wanted to see me that afternoon in Worcester.

Hammond asked Rugg if any statement was made or information given as to whether the matter to be discussed was public or private.

Rugg replied that he thought it was a public matter and that he, himself, understood he was acting in his capacity as district attorney.

Hammond—At this conference whata was done?

Rugg—"The first thing he (Reading) said was that his health was poor, that he was working hard, that he was on the verge of a nervous breakdown and that he intended then to go on a short trip to recuperate.

"He then told me that he had been a director and counsel for the Boston L. A. W. He said the L. A. W. parent company was in Worcester, with some 20 subsidiaries in New England.

"Reading represented, he said, all the subsidiaries except one, I believe, in Holyoke. A dispute had arisen, he said, between the parent company and the subsidiaries, or between the subsidiaries and Mr. Wolfe over the amount to be retained by Mr. Wolfe, or the parent company, out of the proceeds of stock sold. Each contract provided for this, but in each this clause was very loosely drawn.

"In some it ran up to 20 per cent. The sales have been very successful and several millions of dollars of stock sold. Wolfe or the parent company had retained 5 per cent, Mr. Reading said, which he, Mr. Reading, as counsel, thought excessive. The matter, he said, had been adjusted through compromise.

NO CRIMINAL CASE.

"His errand to me was to see if, in my opinion, there was any criminal phase in connection with Wolfe or the Worcester company. I said that on the story as told I could see no criminal action by Wolfe or the Worcester company.

Dist. Atty. Rugg identified several letters which passed between Frank P. Ryan, 332 Main st., Worcester, himself and Atty.-Gen. Reading with relation to the L. A. W. Acceptance Corporation and Atty. Cullivan began his cross examination.

Q.—I will ask you if Mr. Ellsworth knew before the cattle fraud cases were disposed of, and you accepted a plea of nolo and he was fined on one case, and you nolprossed the other, that the papers were lost here at the State House? A.—Not that I know of.

Q.—What did Mr. Reading ever say to you in a general way about the cattle fraud cases? A.—In substance he said to prosecute them to the limit.

Hhe said the Governor had called him in and wanted the cases prosecuted.

Q.—Did the attorney-general suggest that you let Ellsworth or any of the defendants off or be light with them? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Did you ever see any of these papers in Reading's possession? A.—No.

Q.—Do you know whether he had anything to do with these papers? A.—I don't know that he did have.

Q.—Do you know if they were ever in Reading's own private office? A.—I don't know anything about them.

Q.—Did Mr. Reading make any improper suggestions with respect to the disposition of these cases? A.—He made no improper suggestion other than I have already detailed.

Q.—Did Judge Dillon approve of what you were to do with relation to Ellsworth. A.—Judge Dillon did it and that's the best proof that he approved.

all the employed working six days and millions idle six days.

Canada's Government encourages use of electric power, particularly on farms and in small communities. Water power is developed fully, to generate the current, and all are assisted in its installation.

Farmers are taught to grind feed with it, pump water, and do their other work.

And, by the way, United States farmers are urgently invited by the Canadian Government to settle in Canada.

Our attention here is concentrated on a different problem. We want to make sure that the right people get possession of our power sources, the right people being those that control power and peddle it to the people. As to farmers and others that buy and use power, our Government has not found time to think about them.

A Tomato Aspic

TO make Tomato Aspic take 2 tbsp. genatine, ¾ c. water, 1 qt. canned tomatoes, 1 tsp. onion juice, 1 tbsp. sugar, 1 bay leaf, 1 tbsp. minced parsley, ⅛ tsp. white pepper, ½ tsp. salt, lettuce, mayonnaise.

Soak gelatine in water 30 minutes. Drain liquor from tomatoes and bring to a boil, adding onion juice, sugar, bay leaf, parsley and pepper and salt. Simmer for 20 minutes, add gelatine, stir until dissolved and strain into a jelly mold through a flannel bag. When firm, cut in squares and serve on lettuce leaves garnished with mayonnaise.

Chocolate Pie Can Be Prepared Thusly

Half c. evaporated milk, 1½ c. water, 2 eggs, ½ cup flour, ¼ tsp. salt, 1 c. sugar, 2 squares chocolate ½ tsp. vanilla.

Heat evaporated milk and water. Mix egg yolks, sugar, flour, salt, together, and hot liquid, stirring all the time. Add melted chocolate, cook until thick. Add vanilla, pour into baked crust, cover with meringue made of egg whites.

Pine Bark STEW

1 When good fish are caught, we wonder if they die happy in the thought they may be made into that old southern dish—Pine Bark Stew.

2 Drop three small to medium size fi in boiling water for 15 mi utes. Then put them in a baking dish, cover with Blue Label Ketchup and bake slowly until the ketchup turns a dark brown.

3 When the Blue Label is the color of Pine Bark, serve. Three fish serve one person. French fried potatoes and a dish of cole slaw will make this a banquet.

4 And Blue Label Ketchup goes just as well with the "French fries" and the cole slaw as it does with the fish. Any kind of good fish is better when it's eaten with Blue Label!

A Two-to-One Majority

Out of five of the leading brands of ketchup, the famous "blindfold jury" gave a clear two-to-one majority in favor of Blue Label for first choice, over all the others put together.

Such a marked advantage in the public taste is a good guide to preference in your ketchup purchases.

TROPIC CRUISE PROVES MOST POPULAR

Betty Alden Notes Many New England Folk Now Sailing the Spanish Main; Mrs. Rockhill Brevoort Potts Making Another Transatlantic Trip of Year

VENTURING ALONG THE SPANISH MAIN, NOT VIA GALLEON BUT IN LUXURIOUS "CRUISER" IS CHARLES H. WOODBURY. And he sails that fabled isle-dotted sea not in quest of the legendary "pieces of eight," but on a mission entirely peaceable and smacking of business overlaid with a dash of romance. His quest is the lovely tropical bit to transmit to everlasting color, via the water color brush or the tube of oils. For Mr. Woodbury is a painter of fame and attainments, who each winter packs up his brushes and his kit and hies himself Southward; to those spots where marine vistas are jewel tinted and storybook towns lie quiescent beneath a tropic sun.

MR WOODBURY'S PROGRAM EACH LATE WINTER SEASON IS by now a well established habit. And a very pleasant one. He is usually surrounded in his artistic journeyings by a small, choice and hand picked group of congenial spirits. And usually his mother, Mrs. Seth H. Woodbury, is his fellower voyager. She is with him on his present trip. Later, when another Woodbury show is on friends of the painter will be privileged to see his interpretations of Spanish Main bits. The West Indies, aside from its tourists visitors, ever is fertile field for the painter chap.

THE WEST INDIES IS ALSO PARADISE FOR those merely on pleasure bent. Boston's quota in the tropics doing a cruise includes Mrs. Daniel R. Sortwell of Charles River Village. F. Martin Brown of Avon Old Farms in Avon, Ct., is whiling away the late winter in that pleasantly itinerant manner. And from Newport's resident colony there are Mr. and Mrs. William H. Drury, who have their home in Paradise rd. Devereau Barker, well known Marblehead yachtsman, has been doing the tropics in the popular cruise way.

MRS. HOMER LANE BIGELOW, JR.
Is arranging some of the dances for the Pageant that is part of the Home Beautiful Show.

FOR CERTAIN OF THE ITINERANT fashionable set a trip across the ocean is no more formidable an undertaking than is a thirty-mile jaunt for those less Midas-pursed. Mrs. Rockhill Brevoort Potts, for instance. Whenever this handsome cosmopolite is absent from her usual smart haunts, here and in the Big City, one knows without the asking that she is abroad. Seven or eight crossings are nothing unusual as a year's record for Mrs. Potts. She is away just now on what may be her third crossing this year—so casually does she make the three-thousand-or-more-miles jaunt.

THE TRANSATLANTIC SAILING list also includes the name of Mrs. Amor Hollingsworth of "Brushwood" in Milton, a matron whose crossings, though not so frequent, are quite as casually undertaken as are those of Mrs. Potts. Mrs. Hollingsworth sailed Saturday. Edwin S. Dodge has gone over to meet Mrs. Dodge, and return with her later. Miss Susan Hammond, attractive daughter of the Samuel Hammonds of Beacon st., has been basking in the rarefied atmosphere surrounding certain halls of higher learning in England. She went over early in March to join a brother who seeks the Oxonian brand of culture to overlay a Harvard substratum of the same.

WILL EVER THERE BE AN end to these "benefits" which society sponsors with so much goodwill and alacrity? The tenure of "Porgy" at the Hollis Street Theater is overwhelmingly benefitish in flavor. The Harvard Night for the Harvard Liberal Club is latest to be added to the list. April 17 is the evening, and the sponsors and the club officers are as one in putting a shoulder to the wheel, that the dinner, hostesses and box and ticket holders may be of the sort to tinge the affair with social significance. Edward C. Berkeley is president of the Harvard Liberals. Mrs. Norwood Penrose Hallowell and Mrs. Robert de Normandie are among the sponsors.

WHEN ONE IS A MAKER OF "Books Beautiful" such as William Dana Orcutt then one's light can never be hid beneath a bushel. Fame like unto his travels abroad in the land. And results in highly interesting commissions. I saw not long ago a very beautiful example of Mr. Orcutt's handiwork. It is a small volume designed by this master of the art of fine bookmaking, beautifully done on English Tovil handmade paper. The type is a French Old Style cut from designs based on those made by Philippe Grandjean de Fouchy, about the year 1700, for Louis Fourteenth. From cover to cover the small volume is a perfect gem of the craft.

THE TEXT IS A VERY BEAUTIfully expressed "Aide Memoire" written by Frederick Trevor Hill in remembrance of his late brother, Hugh Hill. Prominent New Yorkers, both, so it is eminently fitting that the services of Mr. Orcutt should be called in. Only twenty-five copies of this exquisite small volume have been printed, to be given to the late Mr. Hill's friends. Needless to say Mr. Orcutt, being perhaps the world's best known authority in beautiful book compiling, and loving his hobby passionately, did the thing "con amore."

MORE QUAKES HIT SMYRNA

Constantinople, April 2 (AP)—Another series of earthquake shocks struck the historic city of Smyrna today, increasing the terror of the population which was barely recovering from an earthquake Saturday which caused heavy loss of life.

The first slight shock today was felt at 6 a. m. and this was followed by a succession of eight shocks which sent the boldest who had returned to their houses fleeing to the hills again.

The appearance of geysers in the gulf of Smyrna added to terrifying phenomena which marked the preceding quake and spread panic among the people who are camping in the fields and on the hills.

Latest reports placed the dead at 40 and the injured at 136, 1970 buildings have been destroyed and the damage is estimated at $2,000,000.

GAINESVILLE, Fla., April 2—The Boston Braves, with their big league exhibition series behind them, started off on a new brand of training today. The boys did not do so well in their collision with the Brooklyn Robins. The team tossed away runs, missed a million chances, and was generally at loose ends. The athletes are in great shape physically, so now their mental training has begun. They will get a dose of skull practice each day.

The boys will be told about all the wrong things they did. They will be instructed in the proper method of playing this modern game of baseball. The meetings will be held mornings, which are quite empty in the small towns or on the trains that make up the rest of the excursion. Judge Fuchs, who left for New York Saturday night, had a long conference with Manager Slattery and at this the meeting thing was decided on.

"Now that I have a good team together," the judge explained, "I do not want to miss a possible chance to have it come through. Of course these spring games are just practice, but when weaknesses appear the thing to do is to wipe them out. Ball players, I have found, are prone to forget instructions and advice unless it is perpetually hammered at them. Some athletes have chronic faults, which must be talked about. Then there's a chance of correction.

"Jack Slattery has been going along carefully and slowly and knows just about what's what and who's who on his ball club. So now I think he should bear down and get the team play stuff started. Once that gets ironed out I know we'll have the best Brave team that has started a season for more years than I care to remember."

Fact of the matter is the judge grew a bit impatient watching his expensive and highly touted performers take it on the chin four times in a row from the Dodgers, who have three converted minor leaguers in their infield and an outfield trio that is much inferior to the Brave fly chasers.

MAGNATES AND PLAYERS ARE MUCH ALIKE. THEY WANT TO WIN 'EM ALL. THEY SHOULD BECAUSE THAT'S THEIR BUSINESS.

Spring, Spring, beautiful Spring!
It's here, alas, don't mean a thing.

TWO young pitchers, one of whom was never heard of before this spring in Boston, are expected to give the Braves a real pitching staff—Ed Brandt, the southpaw, and Henry John Wertz, the silent young man who has been with the ball club for a couple of years. The two have plucked off regular sharpshooting jobs and the boys will be heavily disappointed if the pair don't come through in real style.

Brandt is a big left hander, a boy of 26 summers and winters, who knows how to throw that baseball, who has plenty of heart, and who can hit the agate splendidly. He's a cagey pitcher, with stuff, which is always a winning combination.

Young Mister Wertz is a peculiar chap. He doesn't say a word more than twice a week. He hasn't any bad habits, and is strong as an ox. He flourishes on work, and has a burning ambition to become a big league star. Henry John can hurl that onion, and a sort of lack of imagination makes him an ideal pitching type. The fact that he's in the hole never worries. He doesn't care either, if Ruth or somebody like him steps up to the bat. He just pitches.

John Henry has been getting ready these two years, and his probationary period is over. He has arrived unless the visiting firemen are all wrong. A club that can take two youngsters and make them regular pitchers, in addition to getting a Hornsby and a Bell, is in a pretty good spot to enter the tough contention in the first division.

REAL SPRING TRAINING HAS STARTED. THE CLUBS ARE CHUGGING FROM TOWN TO TOWN ON THE WAY NORTH.

YOUR inquisitive correspondent finds that more than 200 baseballs were given away by the Brave club this spring to the most numerous pest of them all, the signature hound. Rogers Hornsby had a million requests to attach his name to [illegible], and he was supposed to supply said agates. Every Boston [illegible] was on Jack Slattery's neck for a baseball. Judge Fuchs was [illegible] the training camps.

The smart [illegible] boys at the Savoy Hotel, who naturally knew the athletes, [illegible] from them, all signed, and disposed of the gifts for $10 a [illegible], to [illegible] crazy guests.

It costs Babe Ruth months a year giving baseballs, and the toll on the Yanks, [illegible] of them, is not exactly light. The Babe would [illegible] passed a [illegible] the practice. So would the other star players. [illegible], so would the magnates. It's their money.

MANY ENTRIES FOR CATHEDRAL Y. M. C. A. RUN

On April 14 the Cathedral Y. M. C. A. will hold its 18th annual 10 mile open handicap cross-country run over the usual course. Starting at the club on Union Park st., the route continues out Harrison ave., to Massachusetts ave., to Columbia rd., to Blue Hill ave., to Morton st., and return by the same route, finishing at the clubhouse door.

The run was started in 1909 in an endeavor to bring to the front men of championship calibre at this distance, which the United States has sadly lacked in all Olympic games.

Since the first year, when only 20 runners started, it has grown to tremendous proportions [illegible] runners already entered. Indications point to over [illegible] starters.

Among the latest are those of Paul Joppas, Finnish American A. C., N. Y., Harold Goslin, James [illegible], George Dodge of the Dorchester Club, Martin Silva, Mike Adelchi, and that of Frenchy Lamoureux, a teammate of Bill Kennedy, the running bricklayer.

In 1917 Kennedy defeated Jimmy Henigan by a few yards in a grueling finish, and five days later won the B. A. A. Marathon. Henigan, who started from scratch that year, created a time record of 51 minutes 7 seconds, which still stands.

Red Sox Brush Up Week for Opener

By JOE CASHMAN

Augusta, Ga., April 2—The Red Sox today open their final week of spring training with a long practice session, which will be followed by an exhibition game with the Augusta club.

Joe Cashman

With another tilt scheduled with Augusta on Wednesday and two games billed in Columbus, O., on Saturday and Sunday to say nothing of the regulation - distance scrub contests carded for tomorrow and Thursday, it won't be Manager Bill Carrigan's fault if his athletes are not all in the pink of condition for the start of the season in Washington a [illegible] row.

They are in pretty fair shape just at present, especially the pitchers, but there is still room for fielding improvements.

That's why they will be kept so busy from now until the campaign gets under way, as the only way they can possibly improve in this important respect is by constant practice.

UP TO INFIELD

It is a hard row the Sox will be called upon to hoe for [illegible] weeks of the season, with more than a score of games scheduled with the Yankees, Mackmen and Senators, three of the strongest outfits in the circuit, but if the Hub defense, particularly the infield, stands up, the team should get off to a much better start than last season.

From present indications the Sox chances of success will depend entirely on the work of the inner quartet in the field. The pitching is bound to be good and the hitting, while it is not likely to be heavy, will be strong enough to bring a fair share of victories to the club, providing the infielders do their part.

They haven't done so to date, though, and unless they improve, the pitching and batting strength will not amount to a whole lot.

BRAD HAS STUFF

Bill Carrigan and Heinie Wagner realize all this and they intend to put every available infielder through an intensive drill for the remainder of the spring grind in an effort to bolster up the one apparent weak spot in the machine. They face a most difficult task, but both are confident that they will succeed in the short time that remains.

Herb Bradley, a big right-hander who [illegible] the club last season and [illegible] regarded as one of the regulars, will face Augusta this [illegible]. If he [illegible] trouble and [illegible] he may be allowed to go the full distance, as were Danny MacFayden and Hal Wiltse in Saturday's scrub game.

Carrigan is very anxious to have six pitchers able to go the entire route once the season starts, and the hurlers who [illegible] in the next few exhibition games are likely to be permitted to continue as long as they desire.

'BUNIONEERS' START SECOND 1000 MILES

Pyle's "Bunioneers" have covered their first thousand miles without a casualty to the psychopathic hospital. The exact distance covered is 1036.3 miles, which leaves 2363.7 miles yet to go.

Tucumcari, N. M., April 2 (INS)—C. C. ("Cross Country") Pyle's bunion derbyists were spurred on today as they neared Tucumcari with the thought that the trek of 36 miles would carry them nearer inhabited areas and away from the gruelling grind of the desert.

Yesterday's lap of 32.2 miles from Sanatarosa, the City of Lakes, where water is unfit to drink, to Newkirk [illegible] and workers [illegible] to casualties.

This was considered the more remarkable, in view of the chicken and trimmings dinner spread by Pyle as a reward for the 94 caravaners' conquest of the first 1000 miles of the [illegible].

Arne Suominen, Detroit naprapath, leader through the 1036.3 miles from Los Angeles to Newkirk, with an elapsed time of 172.32.15, struck off at his leisurely stride that gains more [illegible] the nightly control.

Andrew Payne, the Claremore, Okla., [illegible] boy, grabbed second place on finishing fourth yesterday, [illegible] down the margin previously held by Peter Gavuzzi, [illegible] England.

Daley and Lambert Top Lynn Card

In the semi-final Frankie Mace of Medford will take on [illegible] McKenna of [illegible]. This scrap is [illegible] to [illegible] as [illegible].

The preliminary bouts of six rounds will bring together Gene [illegible] of [illegible] Boston [illegible] Lynn, A. [illegible] of Lynn and Joe Dixon of Boston.

HUDDERSFIELD SOCCER TEAMS IN FINALS

Manchester, Eng., April 2 (AP)—Huddersfield Town won its way into the final of the English Football Association Cup competition today by defeating Sheffield United by one goal to nothing in a play-off. Huddersfield Town will meet Blackburn Rovers in the final.

Today's encounter was the third between Huddersfield Town and Sheffield United in the semi-final round, two [illegible] games having ended in draws.

Huddersfield, besides competing in the English Cup final, which is the "world series" of soccer, is also favored to win the championship of the first division of the English League.

BOWIE TRACK OPENS TOMORROW FOR 11 DAYS

Baltimore, April 3 (AP)—Horsemen are looking to a banner season owing to the rich purses and the wealth of material showing in tryouts for the racing in the East which will be ushered in with the opening of the Spring meeting at Bowie tomorrow.

After 11 days at Bowie, the horses will turn to Havre de Grace, April 14, for 13 days there, and then to 12 days more at Pimlico beginning May 1. Before the end of the Havre de Grace meet racing at the New York tracks will be under way and a week after the closing at Pimlico will come the Kentucky derby at Churchill Downs.

MR. BOSTON

By Jack Conway

"IT won't be long now."

Myles McSweeney, youthful poet laureat and sports writer, was referring to the opening of the baseball season and not to the day when he will step into the league of former free men.

"The big league teams are on their way North," piped Mr. Boston. "They'll soon be on the home diamonds again. Then I live once more."

"What do you mean, live once more?" queried McSweeney.

"Baseball to me is the spring of perpetual youth," answered the veteran. "It charges me with new energy, makes me forget the cares of this world, and sends my memories flying back to the days when as a youngster I played ball on the sand lots of Roxbury."

"You mean," went on McSweeney, "that you place baseball at the head of your sport list?"

"Yes," answered Mr. Boston. "It is the king of sports. It gets one out into the sunshine where the air is clear and pure. It gives the youth of the country an outlet for his pent up energy. It makes one think fast and play fair. Baseball is [illegible] of America. It is the one game that pulls on the heart strings of the masses."

"How about golf?" queried McSweeney.

"A great game," answered the veteran. "But where can our boys play golf? The links are crowded with the $200 a year members who are trying to exercise off the big rolls of fat around their waist lines.

"The caddies now and then get a chance to play golf early in the mornings, but I believe that baseball comes first even with these kids. Did you ever notice how the caddies spent their time outside of the carry house while waiting to journey around the links with some member? They are usually playing ball.

"THE great thing about baseball as far as the boys are concerned is that they only need an old ball and a vacant lot. No fancy clubs, club membership or a bag full of balls are required for them to get enjoyment and health out of their favorite sport.

"How often did you play with an old taped ball? Maybe you didn't even have a glove. You boasted of the calouses on your hands and how you could hit the ball a mile with a heavy club.

"Boxing has come as a major sport, but it is a pastime for the grownups. It is also a sport in which the average person only sits in as a spectator. Most of us prefer to see the other fellow take it on the chin rather than take any punches ourselves.

"In baseball, the youngsters, especially, desire to be contestants. They get their thrill out of cracking out a base hit or making a sensational catch.

"This is why baseball is such a helpful sport for the nation. It makes our boys strong. It helps them to think right.

"IT is right and proper that baseball should have as its hero a boy who has never grown up. I refer to Babe Ruth, the big-hearted bad boy of baseball. Babe is a hero [illegible]. The youngsters may stretch their necks [illegible] Gene Tunney, Walter Hagen, Bobby Jones, Earl Sande or one of the other stars of sports, but they take the Babe right into their hearts. He is one of them.

"Didn't the Babe learn to play ball in the tenement district of Baltimore? Didn't he have to run when the neighborhood cop made his rounds? Didn't he get his early schooling in St. Mary's Industrial school when misfortune struck his home? Didn't he make good in a minor league when only a youngster and later become the greatest home run hitter baseball has ever known?

"And the kids call attention to the fact that Babe is still one of them. Every year he sits in with the boys at St. Mary's Industrial school, plays in the band and acts the part of a youngster on a holiday. He has spent a great deal of his time visiting little shut-ins at hospitals so that they might have a few rays of happiness in their lives.

"Fellows like Babe Ruth have helped to make baseball popular. The great hitter realizes his own popularity, but he truly says that the public's love for the game itself is greater than that which it has for any individual."

Boxers Don't Like to Fight, Says Tunney

By GENE TUNNEY
World's Heavyweight Champion

THE severest critics of boxing as a sport usually make the same mistake in their letters or lectures. They say they cannot understand how a young man of ordinary intelligence who might well have entered any other profession, should have taken up the sport.

They usually add that it is probably an inherent love of fighting that rules the mind of the boxer.

Golfers Must Be Taking Prohibition Seriously

Boston, April 2 (INS)—A 19-hole American golf course, with the "19th hole" located in Canada, is the unique proposition that Francis Ouimet, ex-national open champion, and a number of business men are planning to build this summer.

It will be located on the United States-Canadian border at Richford, Vt. The course will be attractively—and strategically—laid out. The plans have been gone over thoroughly and much attention has been paid to the last hole —the 19th, which is just over the line, in Canada. Practically all of the other holes will be in the U. S. A. The clubhouse, of course, will be in Canada.

Hahn to Train Local School Stars

Falls City, Neb., April 2 (AP)—Lloyd Hahn hung up his track shoes and other cinder path attire today while he loafed about his old home town and gossiped with his boyhood chums.

After a victorious season, in which he lowered several middle-distance track records, Hahn is home for a two months' rest, when he will go into training at the Boston Athletic Association for the Olympic games. When the Olympic games are over he intends to quit the cinder path.

While here, visiting his father, Dr. H. H. Hahn, he expects to run only on a few occasions and then will help Ralph Andrews, Falls City high school coach, in drilling his proteges in track.

Tilden Quit Stage to Attempt a 'Lindbergh'

New York, April 2 (AP)—The Mexicans have nicknamed Big Bill Tilden as a new "ambassador of good will" as he hits his tennis drives up the heights of Mexico City for the opening round of the Davis Cup competition this week.

It may now be revealed, therefore, that it was precisely and principally with the idea of returning on a good will journey that Tilden forsook the stage, threw over his personally directed plans of going abroad early in the spring, and concentrated his tennis playing and coaching efforts on the American zone competition.

How to Make the Hands Smooth and White

By MARIA JERITZA

EVERY woman with proper pride in her appearance wishes to [illegible] pretty, wellshaped hands, [illegible] she need not be ashamed of at any time or place. The woman who knows how to care for her hands and wrists can easily keep them at their loveliest. But how many do? Notice the hands of women [illegible] and you will find that very few of them, indeed, can qualify as beautiful.

Here are a few random hints which should greatly improve the appearance of your hands and wrists, if you adopt them into your regime and follow them faithfully.

"The cut of your sleeves has everything to do with the grace of your wrists and hands. Did that ever occur to you? A certain charming woman who has to practice economy in the matter of clothes, because she is trying to bring up three fine young sons on an income decidedly limited for the time being makes her own pretty little silk frocks. She wore a navy blue crepe the other day which did not satisfy her because the sleeves were not graceful, though she had followed the pattern faithfully. They were finished with rather loose cuffs.

"Lengthen your sleeves an inch so that they will come well down over your wrists," counseled a wise friend, "and draw them snugly into a band cuff. Snappers fastening the cuffs will also loosen them and the sleeves can be drawn over the arms comfortably in donning the dress."

My friend followed this advice and discovered that her hands looked much smaller and more graceful with her wrists encased in slender, long cuffs.

If your hands are inclined to bulge at the knuckles and the veins are prominent, it may be that your circulation is not all it should be. This brings us to another point: do not wear either your sleeve-bands or any other bands, including your wrist watch ribbon, tight enough to interfere with circulation or you may as well resign yourself to red, swollen-looking hands. It is very easy to adjust a wrist watch band so tightly that your wrist will ache—[illegible] you may wonder why.

[illegible] are simple finger and wrist exercises, which should improve circulation and keep your hands youthful and supple if you practice them every day.

Grasp each finger and thumb of [illegible] hand in turn with the thumb [illegible] finger of the other hand. Rotate it gently to the left, then to the right, ten times. Next, cross the second finger of your left hand over the index finger. Keeping it crossed, proceed to cross the third finger over the second, and so on until each finger except the index of your left hand is folded or crossed over another finger. If you possibly can, accomplish this without helping with your right hand. Now unfold your fingers one by one. Repeat this exercise three times with the left, then three times with your right hand.

Finally, circle your left hand ten times to the left, ten times to the right, on your wrist as pivot. Alternate by circling your right hand in the same manner, then circle both hands at once. While you rotate them, let your hands be relaxed and lifeless.

These exercises combined with careful washing and drying whenever they need it, and the use of a good hand lotion many times each day, should keep your hands and wrists white, supple and lovely to look at and touch.

About Flattering Personality

By CHAS. A. L. REED, M. D.

YOU doubtless have felt at times that you have been unequal to tasks and [illegible] which at other times [illegible] easy enough. If you [illegible], you will find that [illegible] of faltering have been [illegible], and that the fa[illegible] come from stress. The fa[illegible] present but, if often repeated or long inflicted, it tends to become permanent. You then [illegible] or a psychasthenic.

The root of the trouble is that the psych[illegible] confidence in himself [illegible] the hall mark of the normal being and the indispensable guide of consistent and purposeful behavior, is seriously impaired. It is undermined by his [illegible] to face [illegible] in his early days. [illegible] cannot realize that he must, like everyone else, live in an uncertain [illegible] and take chances. The ordinary man, when faced, as he is many times every day, by two divergent paths, decides to take one or two alternative courses of action and "damn the consequences."

The victim of obsessions is always too afraid of the consequences to risk decisive action, because he is not sure of himself. As long as he can be bolstered up by a parent, an employer, or a strong-willed friend and told what to do, he can live with a fair degree of adjustment to life.

But when he is faced with a situation—promotion, isolation, a love affair—in which he must act for himself and no one else is any use to him, he will find that such determination as he thought he possessed is a broken reed. If he is religious he may throw the responsibility upon the Deity or the church and expect to be guided in every action. He certainly will be guided, but not by God. His instinctive power will take charge of that suggestible part of himself which has hitherto relied on the guidance of some one stronger and proceed to lead him backwards, away from the fulfillment of his manhood, and show him excellent reasons why he should not go on.

[illegible] he will feel his scope [illegible] more and more cramped and the feeling will express itself in [illegible]. His natural desire for power and possession, which he has been afraid to express in the proper way by accepting responsibility, will prompt him to steal. He is running away from himself, and one effective way, at least temporarily, of doing this is to dull his mind by drink or drug. He may rationalize his fear of himself as a fear or hatred of some one else, which fear may at length lead him to injure or kill that person. Finally, the situation may become so intolerable that in order to escape it he kills himself.

Obsession is a disease of the mind and, like most other diseases, can be cured or greatly relieved.

Correct Manners Explained

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

My fiance's brother is to be married soon. Is it all right for my fiance and me to present one gift from us both, or are the rules of etiquette that each of us is to present a gift separate from the other? I would like to be correct as to this. My fiance and I are to be married in the spring.

A FRIEND-IN-NEED.

I THINK that until a couple are married it shows a little bit better taste for them to give separate wedding presents.

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1—Would you kindly advise me as to who stands in the receiving line of a reception immediately following a church wedding? The reception will be at the bride's home.

2—Which is proper, for the bridesmaids to march together or separately where there is more than one?

DOLLY.

CUSTOMARILY, this is the formation of the receiving line at a wedding: First, the father of the bride; next the mother of the bride; next the groom's father; next, the groom's mother; next the groom, with the bride on his right; next, the maid of honor, and, last, the bridesmaids.

2—Usually the bridesmaids walk together two by two, the shortest leading. And this is the best form in both the processional and the recessional.

The rainbow of step-saving suds has a Chipso box at each end

A host of women we know have discovered a way to save steps, and it doesn't cost a penny more. Would you like to know the secret? They keep 2 boxes of Chipso in use at the same time, so they never have to say, "Where is that box of Chipso?"

You see, when the 25c box (big enough to dip a cup into) is by the washtub or washing machine . . . and another box stands by the kitchen sink . . . Chipso's work-saving suds are right within hand's reach for clothes or dishes whenever you want them.

If you have happened to use Chipso's white flakes only to get through dishes ⅓ quicker, you still have the remarkable surprise of a Chipso washday before you! There is no drudgery in it . . . no rub-rub-rub . . . no muggy boiling! Even play clothes and work clothes need only a safe Chipso-soaking.

PROCTER & GAMBLE

Soaks clothes clean

"Now, instead of rub-rub-rubbing away for hours—I soak the clothes first thing in the morning in your wonderful Chipso suds. Then, when the children are off to school, I come back. Why, the dirt is ready to drop out! First, I squeeze the clothes good—then, I look for spots and edges—even these only need hand rubbing. Nine o'clock and I'm ready to rinse!"

The most amazing success in the history of household soap

Dishes ⅓ less time

"Like most women, I guess, I always hated getting my hands red washing dishes. Now, thanks to you, I let the china stand in the Chipso suds while I'm rinsing and wiping the glass and silver. The dishes seem to come clean of themselves! You can let Chipso suds soak grease off the utensils, too. And doesn't that save your hands?"

AUTHOR of "CHICKIE"

A Story of Mad Moonlight Kisses and a Wonderful Young Girl

CHAPTER 54

AUGUST again.

A year ago one Sunday Jerry stood here at [illegible] garden, waiting with jangling nerves for a telephone to ring.

That was the time her mind had her quarrel without reason; they had [illegible] the parting. And she waited for him to come, with the [illegible] of his arms and the touch of his lips [illegible] the bitter [illegible].

A whole year since that house party at Phil Cowper's country place.

Tonight Phil was giving a dinner. It would be different from dinners at the weekends—quite different. Yvonne Potter, Phil's bride, would adroitly see to this.

All that last summer Yvonne had graciously and with a large smile attended those weekends. She turned her [illegible] that Phil eagerly [illegible] marriage.

[illegible] Yvonne [illegible] tighten the [illegible] to [illegible] start [illegible] the dinner was [illegible] very [illegible] as Phil sheepishly told [illegible].

Yvonne scratched various bootleg [illegible] Jessie [illegible] Moore and [illegible] went ahead femininely and triumphantly.

Yvonne spent Phil's income, compelled him to earn more, and saved him from the ruin his ill timed legacy had started. He was happy.

Jerry was going to this dinner. She began to dress. "It's lucky [illegible] and I [illegible] wear the same clothes," she thought, slipping the crimson [illegible] over her head. "Wardrobe's getting low. And I'm glad I look [illegible] in red."

She observed with quickened pulse the shadowy purple [illegible] her eyes, the reckless taunt of her young passionate mouth. Just how she wanted to look—high and go to the devil—"

Just how she wanted Saxon Rhodes to see her—always. "Why do I feel so? Why do I want him to think I don't give a damn?"

He would be there tonight. With Mary.

And it was bitterly important that Jerry should appear beautiful—[illegible], different, supreme. She [illegible] contempt. "The [illegible] Cleopatra. We can't get away from it, can we?"

• • •

Mary Eunice wore emerald green. The color suited her shadowy eyes, [illegible] and skin [illegible] of pale tan [illegible]. She looked [illegible] and attractive sitting there on the divan with her legs swung back, half under her, her head lowered. Saxon spoke to her. A [illegible] and flushed. It [illegible] very [illegible] and appealing.

'I Was Just Telling Saxon How Clever You Are, Jerry'

And he liked it and gazed at her [illegible].

Jerry saw this as she entered the room [illegible] was nearest to [illegible] Mary immediately made room [illegible] talking in the most com[illegible] and in [illegible].

"I was just telling Saxon what a [illegible] Jerry, but he [illegible] forgetting [illegible] friends.

"[illegible] not seen my purple [illegible]. You know, Sicks, I wanted [illegible] Jerry was afraid [illegible] of death and [illegible]. She insisted that I be saved from such a fate, and [illegible] it in purple. Wasn't that [illegible]?"

A [illegible] of patronage in Mary's large friendliness. It made Jerry [illegible] kindness of the victor to [illegible] favor.

"You know, Jerry," went on the [illegible] Miss Fe[illegible], "I [illegible] weekend. Join us. What [illegible]?"

[illegible] Saxon [illegible] Mary.

[illegible] into Saxon's eyes and [illegible] a song, faintly [illegible] He was very [illegible].

Yet she knew that he was thinking Mary Eunice [illegible] while [illegible] Jerry was [illegible] and [illegible].

After dinner she gained a second [illegible]. They were waiting for Yvonne to give them places at the [illegible].

Mary Eunice was [illegible] forth in husky, earnest tones on the immortality of the [illegible]. It was one of her [illegible] to talk [illegible] on any profound subject.

She leaned forward, apparently unconscious of herself, but luring the two men with her warm eyes and generous voice. In her fervor she pressed one hand to her heart. And kept it there. The gesture was appealing, especially with those parted lips and soul-awakened eyes. But it embarrassed Jerry. She knew Mary Eunice was perfectly self-aware—a woman always is—and she felt like snapping "Oh, put your hands [illegible] your lap. He's not likely to forget you're a woman and have curves." Besides, you've no more nor less than any barmaid. Why make a point of it?"

The amazing thing was that both Saxon and Hugh [illegible].

"No," said Mary Eunice with cite [illegible] cynicism, "I see no reason why the hereafter should be crowded with millions of [illegible] any more than it should be crowded with defunct cows or [illegible].

"But I do think Seneca is right in claiming an immortality for the universe. We are [illegible].

"Our bodies are [illegible] body of the race, our race [illegible] in the drama of life [illegible]."

"Oh," said Hugh, "[illegible] that beautiful."

Mary gave him a flushed smile and accepted the tribute. [illegible] meeting Jerry's [illegible] as though he said "Now [illegible] for yourself [illegible] brilliant."

They rose following [illegible] to the card tables.

Jerry and Hugh and three or four others were not playing.

"I had [illegible] Miss [illegible] such a [illegible]," said [illegible] heard [illegible] neat a [illegible] long time."

Jerry gave him an angry look but said nothing. She didn't care what Hugh thought of Mary Eunice.

Yvonne brought [illegible] the card tables. They were [illegible] cent point. Very silent and intent, having battle as men [illegible] of [illegible] scene.

At midnight they were still playing and at one o'clock.

"You don't mind if we [illegible] rubber, do you?" said Mary [illegible].

Saxon looking haggard and [illegible] drained his glass. "Nothing it out if you wish."

"They'll play till morning," said Yvonne, bidding Jerry goodby. "You can't pry Mary Eunice loose from a bridge game. She'd think you impudent if you interrupted her to take a hot coal off your foot."

"Well—that's all right for those who breakfast in bed at 11:30," said Jerry. "Men and working ladies should know better."

She thought with fury and bitterness: "He must be sunk in her hopelessly if he lets her cheat him from a day's work. How can he be fresh tomorrow. He lets her cheat him of that."

Two days later Saxon dropped in for a brief late afternoon visit.

The encounter left Jerry trembling in fury.

The Spring Song

DRAWN BY Nell Brinkley

ONCE upon a time there was a very great musician, who [illegible] overpoweringly beautiful songs, and sang them himself. His name bothered him because he felt it did not express the beauty and the grace and the passion that he believed he was putting into his lovely songs. His name was Daniel Cupid. And he thought it sounded comic rather than romantic. "It will make folks laugh instead of sigh, when someone says 'It's Dan that's singing'" [illegible]. But it was his nature to carol and chant the most heart-melting serenades that were ever heard out of fairyland, even with a name like "Dan"; so carol and chant he did—and his name went on being DAN CUPID—and sounding funny to him.

But [illegible] a composer [illegible] a name that sings [illegible] so is no more, no less, expression of a food complex that drives animals to seek and ingest food.

The drive for food is backed by [illegible] motor mechanism, which functions until food is secured and ingested. Food itself in the [illegible] canal is [illegible] for further action and [illegible] the initial drive was [illegible] bringing [illegible].

The drive for a mate is backed by a sensor motor mechanism which functions until the [illegible]. Subsequent changes [illegible] the [illegible] and other [illegible] will be useful for the [illegible] progeny.

Here is an element of huge import in setting patterns of behavior, even in modifying structure.

Species vary greatly in these two respects. In some, secondary sex differences are slight, in others marked and highly characteristic, as in most species of birds, many species of vertebrates, and in the anthropoid apes. Patterns of behavior vary from extraordinarily complex

WON'T YOU KINDLY ASK QUESTIONS?
Our Free Legal Bureau Offers Friendly, Helpful Advice to Paid-Up Subscribers

Above picture shows our Inkwell refilling department, which makes possible our free legal advice to the poor. Only modern equipment is utilized, thus permitting us to handle a great bulk of legal advice in the minimum time.

Question—Our neighbors wrap their garbage in an old newspaper and then toss the package on our front porch. Please, give us your free legal advice.

Mr. and Mrs. T. LeBerthon,
Angels Flight Apartments.

Answer—We are glad you asked that question. No one wants to stumble over a package of garbage, day after day, or absent-mindedly toss it in the house to be carelessly kicked around. Particularly somebody else's garbage. Indeed, dear reader, you CAN do something about it. And quickly, too.

The party of the first part should be presented with Volume I of the Revised Ordinances of the City of Los Angeles. And the party of the second part should stand by while the party of the first part reads the contents carefully.

When party of the first part comes to Section 33, Paragraph 8, the party of the second part should clear his throat and suggest that the party of the first part read once again, aloud, to the party of the second part this particular section.

It is better, perhaps, if the party of the second part holds, concealed behind his back, the Odium Rotundo, carefully wrapped. When the reader comes to the proper pause, fire the demurrer square in the face of the party of the first part. Then run to your work as fast as ever your legs will carry you.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Sir—

I've just started practicing dentistry, and my first patient—so it happened,—was my mother-in-law. I donned my white gown and laid out my shining instruments. "Open wide," I said, pleasantly, while I prepared to take an impression of her mouth. Imagine my embarrassment when I discovered I had used cement instead of wax, thus locking the poor woman's jaws.

Dr. Jack Dennis.

CHARLOTTE, N. C.—To restore old King Cotton to his throne, 75 women here have forsaken silk stockings and underwear.

In a pledge to the Johnston Manufacturing Company, makers of cotton yarn, by whom they are employed, the women many of them young, have sworn, out of loyalty to their employers, to wear only hose and underwear made of cotton.

Don't Let That Cold Turn Into "Flu"

That cold may turn into "Flu," Grippe or, even worse, Pneumonia, unless you take care of it at once. Rub Musterole on the congested parts and see how quickly it brings relief.

As effective as the messy old mustard plaster; does the work without blister.

Musterole, made from pure oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other simple ingredients, is a counter irritant which stimulates circulation and helps break up the cold. You will feel a warm tingle as it enters the pores, then a cooling sensation that brings welcome relief.

OCCASIONAL RELAXATION RENEWS AMBITION

By J. J. MUNDY.

DO you know how to relax?

Or have you kept yourself at such tension for so long that you cannot seem to let down?

Under such circumstances you will soon wear out.

At best you can be efficient only a few years unless you give yourself time to be free from care and worry.

If you wish to prolong your usefulness, you must give yourself a change once in a while.

Get yourself under better control.

Your efforts to relax depend upon your self control.

Start with short periods when you slacken your physical and mental speed.

If you continue these efforts to relax the tired nerves you will be rewarded with greater success in your work.

You can't run at high speed all the time.

THE MAN IN THE HOME

By LUCY LOWELL

THERE is the same difference between most persons and practically all husbands at home and outside the home as there is between character and reputation.

Many a man's soft-spoken reasonableness and kindly manner convinces the world at large that he is a gentle, considerate husband and a model father whereas his wife has to crawl in for money to pay the milk bill and his children freeze up into a sort of dumb terror when they hear his step in the hall.

And then there is the other sort the man who seems rather shiftless, who does not take life as seriously as he might, who, has many things about him to make folks say that he can't be much of a family man. Yet you see the happy face of his wife as she watches for him and hear the joyous shouts of his children as they welcome him, and you know that there is something about him very well worth while indeed.

"In his "A Man's Real Measure," W. C. Brann says of this one:

"If his children rush to the front door to meet him and love's sunshine illuminates the face of his wife every time she hears his footfall, . . . he may be a rank atheist and a red-flag anarchist, he may buy votes in blocks of five and bet on the elections; he may deal 'em from the bottom of the deck and drink beer until he can't tell a silver dollar from a circular saw and still be an infinitely better man than the cowardly little humbug who is all suavity in society, but who makes home a hell, who vents upon the helpless heads of his wife and children an ill nature he would inflict on his fellow men, but dares not.

"I can forgive much in that fellow mortal who would rather make men swear than women weep, who would rather have the hate of the whole world than the contempt of his wife; who would rather call anger to the eyes of a king than fear to the face of a child."

A WIFE'S MEDITATIONS

By HELEN ROWLAND

AN ENTERPRISING greeting card firm is making an attempt to establish a "Sweethearts Day," in June.

This may be commercialized sentiment, but it is one of a hundred good signs, that we see on every side these days. It is a sign that the world WANTS sentiment, that romance is not dead, and that young love has not yet joined the Dinosaurus.

All the most popular screen plays are highly colored with romance, gooey with sentiment, and replete with plain old-fashioned love—the kind that father used to make. All the most popular screen stars are the great lovers and the enchantresses.

All the magazines are clamoring for love-stories and articles on love and marriage. And all the songs that come to you over the radio are love-ballads about gardens and moonlight and broken hearts and old-fashioned sweethearts. Beautiful signs of the times.

We may talk about safe and sane new modes of marriage, moan that all the world's going to the devil and the divorce courts, wail that the modern man is just a lump of proto-plasm and the modern girl is unsentimental as a cold boiled potato—but if that be true why all his commercialized sentiment?

Nobody would be trying to commercialize sentiment if there were not a large and profitable market for it. Greeting card firms and makers of valentines, are not altruists. They are wise guys who are giving the public what it is clamoring for.

And this old world has been FED UP with cynicism and synthetic love and petting parties and sex talk and hard-boiled virgins and cold-blooded propositions for denaturing marriage. It is clamoring for romance, as it never has before!

We are sick of champagne and truffles and caviar, and hungering for good old-fashioned food for the soul and the affections and the emotions. We are tired of canned theories, and canned love-making, and bottled thrills.

We are thirsting for the glamour and the glory of romance—even though we may have to take them vicariously. We've GOT to have our sentiment, just as we've got to have our oxygen and our water and our food.

We may talk of companionate marriage, and unions based on nothing but common sense, and eugenic babies and sex experiments. We may think ourselves wise birds, cool-headed and SO sophisticated.

But we can't beat old Dame Nature, who put that mating instinct in us and colored it up with ROMANCE, flavored it with sentiment, and coated it with idealistic love—just as the druggist disguises the medicine with the pretty pink candy. We may fool ourselves, but we can't fool Divine Wisdom!

MAKE MORE MONEY

Healthy, vigorous men land life's best prizes. Buoyant step, bright eyes, clear complexion and exuberant vitality denote a system free from impurities. Constipation poisons the whole system, slows the step, saps energy, destroys confidence and cuts down the earning power.

Rid your system of constipation and its poisons. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets remove them gently, tone up the system, clear the eyes and complexion and bring back normal vigor. A compound of vegetable ingredients, prescribed to patients for 20 years in place of calomel. They act easily and quickly on the bowels and liver.

Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets and keep fit for the daily grind. Thousands of happy men and women use them regularly as an aid to success in their everyday tasks. Know them by their olive color, 15c, 30c, 60c.

RADIO DIALOG

Jacques Thibaud, French violinist, the Goldman Band and an orchestra will participate in tonight's General Motor party, to be heard from WEEI at 9:30. For his first offering Thibaud will do the Andante and Rondo movements from the Symphonie Espagnole of Lalo, as soloist with the orchestra. In two groups he will have W. C. Janapaulos as accompanist.

The Time-to-Re-Tire Boys will be heard in vocal choruses and duets with orchestral accompaniments, singing popular songs at 10:30. This program will come to WEEI from WEAF.

The Old Time Minstrels, heard through WEEI and WTAG on Monday evenings from 7:30 to 8, will introduce a new series of old fashioned music with tonight's program.

Four new types of Ceco tubes have been released by the C. E. Manufacturing Co. of Providence. One is the new four-element shielded grid type, R. F. 22, which has recently come into great popularity, giving amplification of 30 to 50 per stage. The three others are of the power-amplifying type, including the 150, a 7½ volt, 1¼ amp. power tube; and the F-12 A and J-71A, being equivalent to the 112 and 171 types, except for a current drain of ¼ amp. as against ½ amp in the older types.

The U. S. Bureau of Standards gives suggestions for the elimination of summer static. One idea is to use a very small antenna, either a low, short outdoor aerial, or an indoor antenna. A loop consisting of a dozen or more turns of wire on a two foot frame will help to eliminate static because of its directional characteristics. Another means of obtaining quiet reception is to purchase a very selective receiving [illegible]. A final suggestion is to bury a long antenna a short distance under ground. It might be added, that if all these fail, the receiver might be buried.

Germany has made the greatest strides of any European country in the development of radio, according to William Dubilier. Broadcasting is under government supervision, as it is in France and England. The German set-owners pay a yearly license of $12, which goes for the support of stations and supplying programs. In France there are a few independent broadcasters. The French have developed an anti-fading device which operates successfully for near or distant signals.

Gradually the radio public is being accorded more complete information on the push-button receiving set invented and developed by Harry N. Marvin. The set is now in production at the Zenith Radio Corporation plant in Chicago. One model has 10 push buttons. Another has six. One button releases the mechanism and makes the set a regular, dial-operated one. The other buttons may be set for individual stations as selected by the listener. These settings may be changed by loosening a set-screw, retuning and tightening the set-screw once more.

Morrison's Irish Minstrels, who have supplied old-time dance music for Irish societies in Greater Boston during the past 15 years, will be heard from WLOE from 10 to 10:30 this evening. Their program will open with clog and hornpipe numbers, reels, jigs and flings. Kathryn Morrison, violinist, will play "Blue Bells of Scotland." Blanche Tracy, pianist; Marion A. Carlton, soprano; Michael Morrison, violinist; Albert Sullivan, accordionist; Jimmie Liddell, cornetist, will be among the soloists. The entire group will be heard in the ballad "Valley Near Slieve-na-mon."

EXCELLENT WAR CAMP COMEDY AT BOSTON

By LEO GAFFNEY

With a Mary Roberts Rinehart story as the source, Wesley Ruggles has worked out a little comedy for Laura La Plante that runs its course like a merry, gurgling brook sparkling in the sunshine. It has a way of darting into small corners, eddying for a moment into broad comedy, frisking over a farcical obstacle here and there, and then twinkling on again in the gayest of spirits; always on the move and always uncontrolably happy. "Finders Keepers," it is called, and the Keith-Albee is the place to see it.

Laura La Plante

Making no attempt to batter at an audience's sense of humor by a series of sweating "gags," Mr. Ruggles more modestly achieves his purpose by building up his several characters and requesting them to behave like human beings.

When Miss La Plante fixes her affections on Johnny Harron, the private, rather than on a more resplendent "shavetail," it is much more believable—and a great deal funnier—to have her meet him in the rear of the officers' mess where he is, for the moment, dejectedly concerned with the disposition of garbage.

Altogether, "Finders Keepers," is a thoroughly entertaining and smart bit of screencraft. Besides being one of the easiest of the film beauties to look upon, Miss La Plante is now discovered as an extraordinary comedienne.

LETTER BRINGS BIRTHDAY JOY

There are a lot of good reasons to be glad of your birthday. Why not let the Boston Evening American in on your particular reason?

Then maybe you'll be the guest of this paper and of Loew's State Theater at the show.

Of course you know why you're glad your birthday happens to be on the day it is. In order to qualify for the birthday party being arranged, all you have to do is write a short letter to the Birthday Editor of this paper and tell him all about it.

If your letter is a good one, you receive a guest award.

Here are the rules: Anyone under 16 years of age is eligible to compete.

You must write a 15 to 25-word letter telling why you are glad your birthday is in the month it is.

You can send your letter telling of your birthday any time within one week preceding the date.

You must not be older than 16 years.

OFFICIALS AT FUNERAL OF RICHARD C. KIRBY

Officials of state and city, together with representatives from civic organizations and a number of friends today attended the funeral of Richard C. Kirby, for many years a leader in East Boston civic improvements and a well-known undertaker. The funeral took place from his home, 245 Main st., Winthrop, with solemn requiem mass at St. John the Evangelist Church at 10 o'clock. Rev. William D. Keenan was celebrant; the pastor, Rev. John T. O'Brien, was deacon; Rev. James S. Kelleher, sub-deacon, and Rev. Lawrence P. Morrisroe, master of ceremonies. Burial was in Holy Cross Cemetery.

FORM CATHOLIC LITERARY GUILD TO SELECT BOOKS

New York, April 2 (AP)—A Catholic literary guild of America has been formed to select for communicants of the church those books they should read and those they should leave unread, according to an announcement today by Rev. Francis X. Talbot, S. J., literary editor of "America." "For the first time we will have a popular literature which treats of the problems of marriage, divorce, science and other questions according to Catholic teachings," Fr. Talbot said.

Seven editors and authors of national prominence will comprise the board of editors, Fr. Talbot said.

FATHER TAKES HOME BODY OF WOMAN CRASH VICTIM

Biddeford, Me., April 2 (INS)—The father of Mrs. Robert E. Dick, who was killed in an automobile crash here, took the body of his daughter to his home in Brooklyn, N. Y., today. Stoughton P. Cross of Hartsdale, N. Y., companion of Mrs. Dick, is in Biddeford Hospital with both legs fractured and severe injuries about the head and possible internal injuries. Mrs. Dick, wife of Robert Dick of 1421 Dean st., Brooklyn, was killed when a roadster in which she and Cross were driving crashed into a tree. Cross is a manufacturer and fire commissioner of Hartsdale.

AMERICANS IN BETHLEHEM PALM SUNDAY PROCESSION

Bethlehem, Palestine, April 2 (AP)—Over a road along which Jesus Christ passed with His disciples nearly 1900 years ago on the first Palm Sunday, hundreds of Christians walked yesterday. Many Americans, including delegates to the International Missionary Council, joined in the devotional procession over the six miles from Bethlehem to Jerusalem. Services were conducted on the hill overlooking the home of Martha and Mary. Passing the Tomb of Lazarus the marchers gained their first view of the Holy City's walls.

JUDGE LINDSEY SELLS BOOK TO BE FILMED

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS.

LOS ANGELES, April 2—Nothing escapes the movies. That is, nothing worthwhile. Judge Ben Lindsey's famous book, "Companionate Marriage," probably the most widely read and discussed book last year, has been purchased by Sam Sax and Asher, Small and Rogers. Object, of course, being the films.

If you know anything about Judge Lindsey and the way he works you can be reasonably sure he will not permit his book to be filmed without having a finger in the pie. That, I believe, was one of the stipulations of the sale. He is scheduled to arrive in Hollywood within the next week to collaborate and help write the scenario and to translate, if possible, for the medium of the screen, the correct definition of "Companionate Marriage."

Furthermore, the judge, himself, will play a part in the production. I don't know just how or why, but we can answer that soon, for production will be started the latter part of April.

They plan to road-show it throughout the country, showing it in the legitimate houses and charging $2 prices.

There are many actresses on the screen who can fade out of sight and we will forget to even inquire whither and why they have gone. Not so with Anna Q. Nilsson, who is as popular today as she fas when her statuesque Nordic beauty was first a part of the films.

William Le Baron has had the good judgment to see this and has signed her to make a series of features in 1928-1929 for F. B. O. The first of these is "Blockade," based on an original by Louis Sarecky and John Twist. I hope it's a dramatic story in which Anna can play a woman of intelligence and sense. She shines best in roles of this kind. Let's leave the ingenue parts to some of the flappers.

Doctor's orders. The red-haired Clara Bow, who recently underwent an operation for appendicitis, is exercising her stellar rights by taking three weeks more rest before she begins on "Ladies of the Mob." Clara, who has grown very grand since the days when I knew her, and very important, ah me, ah me, took no chance of being refused an additional holiday.

She flourished the doctor's orders that she wait two weeks longer before she begins work in the face of B. P. Schulberg. What could poor P. B. do in a case like that? The kindest man in the world, he could not refuse poor little Clara an extra two weeks.

"Virtue is its own reward" can be easily paraphrased to "slenderness is its own reward." Carmel Myers, who has taken off many, many pounds and who looks almost as svelte as Greta Garbo, has been signed by the Gotham Company for three specials.

This contract was inspired by "The Girl From Rio" which she made for them some months ago. She will do "The Girl From Argentine," a sequel and a modern version of Sapho. Both of these stories were written with Carmel in mind, all of which puts the talk of her going on the vaudeville stage somewhat in the well-known background.

I wish somebody would make up his mind what is going to happen when Rod La Rocque returns. First we hear it said and authenticated in a letter from Mr. La Rocque, that he will play in "The Innocent." Then we hear it equally emphasized that before Mr. La Rocque plays in "The Innocent" he will carry out his original plan and star in "The Ticket Chopper."

Moreover, the De Mille studios offer as proof of this statement that E. H. Griffith has been engaged to direct Mr. La Rocque. Perhaps Rod plans to double up and work at the Goldwyn studios and the De Mille studios at the same time.

PEABODY GIRL OF 15 IS REPORTED MISSING

The Boston police were asked by the Peabody authorities to be on the watch for 15-year-old Sophie Draibes of that city, who is missing from her home.

She is described as large for her age, 5 feet 6 inches tall, weighing 160 pounds, dark complexion, dark hair and eyes and wearing a red coat and brown low shoes.

PENSION FUND CONCERT WELL PERFORMED

By MOSES SMITH

The Pension Fund Concert of the Boston Symphony Orchestra was once more an "event," as has been true in nearly every case since Serge Koussevitzky took charge of activities in Symphony Hall. On this occasion the chosen music was "King David," a symphonic psalm by Arthur Honegger, ultra-modern French composer.

The performance, which had been as eagerly awaited as that of Stravinsky's "Oedipus Rex" a few weeks ago, was the first in Boston. Under a different name, Honegger's work has substantially the same form as Stravinsky's, and so the listeners, who, strangely enough, did not fill every seat, came more or less prepared. Once more a prominent part was taken by the narrator, who fill in the time between the "numbers" with the material necessary to follow the course of the plot.

Judging the music as a whole from a single hearing, we think it more significant than that of Stravinsky's similar work. First impressions are, it is true, notoriously unreliable. Yet the listener sensed a far greater unity of purpose, a more individual as well as coherent style in "King David." Though even the mellow Brahms poked his head into the score, Honegger wrote for the most part in an idiom that seemed to be his own, an idiom withal that matched the text with dramatic emphasis. There were not the many disconcerting reversions to different styles and composers that were so apparent in Oedipus Rex."

The performance under Mr. Koussevitzky's baton seemed not only sympathetic but brilliant. The chorus, consisting of the Harvard Glee Club and Radcliffe Choral Society, had been trained so well by Dr. Archibald T. Davison that it delivered text and music with extraordinary precision. The soloists, Ethel Hayden, Viola Silva and Tudor Davies were adequate to the occasion. The orchestra did its job well.

LATEST DUPONT FILM PLEASES

An eloquent example of the contrariness of the frisky films comes to light with "Love Me And The World Is Mine," now at the Scollay.

A. E. Dupont, the man who made "Variety," turned out the current production, which is a Viennese war yarn, and what do the producers do but clap a popular song title to it!

It is a romantic tale, sentimental in the European style, and it concerns an innocent convent girl, a giddy lady of the capital, and a young army officer who can only be described as "dashing."

The players are Mary Philbin, Betty Compson, Norman Kerry and Henry B. Walthall. All give exceptional performances.

CHICAGO UNDERWORLD FILM ON OLYMPIA SCREEN

"Chicago After Midnight," now at the Washington St. Olympia, represents that fair city providing you take it through the medium of the criminal reports.

The Chicago it exhibits is a modern Babylonia with its multiplicity of harsh noises, the gat-swinging gangsters, the hard life the police lead, the cabarets, the "dames," the jazz-piping Romeos the tapping of night sticks and all the rest of the thrills that are supposed to go with the turbulent life of the underworld.

Ralph Ince directed the picture, in which he also plays a principal part. Other players are Jola Mendez and Frank Mills

MARINES KILL 5 REBELS IN NICARAGUAN CLASH

Managua, Nicaragua, April 2 (AP)—American marines vigorously pursued scattered rebels in northern Nicaragua today after a large band of them had been set upon in two clashes and routed. Five rebels were killed and two wounded in the two fights. One of those slain was known to have been a chief lieutenant of Gen. Augustino Sandino, insurgent commander. The skirmishes took place 50 miles north of Jinotepe. Twenty-one horses and mules, 16 saddles, two rifles, several machetes and a number of bombs were captured from the rebels.

MAN TRAPPED UNDER PILE OF COAL SAVED

Holyoke, April 2 (AP)—After being trapped under a coal pile in some mysterious manner for several hours, Peter Grappon, fireman at the Germania Mills, was rescued when his cries for help attracted Rose Grandchamp, who notified police. The fires had been unattended for several hours and steam was pouring from the safety valve when police investigated.

DIVORCE "TOO TERRIBLE!" FOR DOLORES DEL RIO

New York, April 2 (INS)—"There will never be a divorce between us—it would be too terrible." Dolores Del Rio and her husband, Jaime, are in one accord on that score. But as for separation, she is in Hollywood and he is in New York city with no intention of going out to the film colony, where he is known as "Mr. Dolores Del Rio."

AL JOLSON'S NOSE, HIT BY DEMPSEY, O. K. AGAIN

Chicago, April 2 (AP)—Al Jolson has taken his nose to the doctor for beautification. The comedian appeared last night at the theater where he is playing with an improved proboscis provided by a Chicago specialist. During a sparring match with Jack Dempsey ten years ago Jolson took too long to dodge. A bruise left a black spot which has now been removed.

"BREAKFAST AT SUNRISE" SHOWING AT THE FENWAY

"Breakfast at Sunrise," at the Fenway, is the joint work of that capable comedienne, Constance Talmadge, and that excellent director, Malcolm St. Clair.

Paris is the locale of this light but extremely amusing trifle, and the ensuing action is all that a Gallic French farce should be.

The supporting cast includes Marie Dressler in the role of a dowdy queen; Burr McIntosh as her rather disreputable companion; Don Alvarado as the star's chief leading man, and others, Alice White, Paulette Duval and Bryant Washburn.

On the same bill at the Fenway appears another first run feature, "Love Me and the World Is Mine."

PEOPLE'S SYMPHONY PLAY FRENCH MUSIC

Music of French composers filled the program of the nineteenth People's Symphony Orchestra program conducted by William F. Hofmann. The most important number was the Saint-Saens third symphony in C minor, played with the organ and piano parts called for in the score. The performance was a sympathetic one.

The concert opened with the popular overture to "Mignon," followed by Debussy's "Afternoon of a Faun." The final number was a suite drawn from Bizet's incidental music to "L'Arlesienne." In the minuet the flute solo was played by J. E. Kurth.

Preston, Oil Pioneer, Dies

NATIONAL POLICIES OF THE HEARST NEWSPAPERS

1. An agreement of English-speaking peoples to preserve peace among themselves and promote the peace of the world.
2. A constitutional amendment to provide for the election of United States Senators in numbers proportionate to the population of each State, but no State to have less than two Senators. A reapportionment of Congressional representation immediately after every census, or in case of the failure of Congress so to act, to make the apportionment automatic at the end of the first Congressional session, the proportion of population for each representative in each case to be that of the existing Congress.
3. A separate Department of the Army, of the Navy and of the Air Forces, all united under a Secretary of National Defence.
4. Federal action to the limit of Federal Government powers to abolish illiteracy among the people of the United States, and the creation of a Secretary of Education.
5. Necessary measures to secure the election of Congress in November and its installation on the 1st of January following, and the inauguration of a President on the 1st of January immediately following his election in November.

Suspicious Policeman

He Learns Something

Unless they themselves care to say it there is not much that CAN be said, for either the Chelsea police officer who arrested three citizens "on suspicion" or the District Court judge who sentenced them to be IMPRISONED FOR 30 DAYS.

Actually they have not served a day, nor will they. Brought to the attention of Judge Buttrick, in the Superior Criminal Court, the complaint has been quashed.

The police officer's allegation was that "being abroad in the night time and acting in a suspicious manner," the men failed to give a satisfactory account of themselves.

His right to make an ARREST under such circumstances is not disputed. Similar arrests are made in Boston and in other cities every day in the year. Many a minnow caught in this fashion has turned out to be a whale.

Having made the arrest, however, the policeman is bound to go further. WERE his suspicions well founded? If in 48 hours he is unable to charge his "suspect" with a crime the man must be set at liberty.

Was the prisoner intoxicated? Was he in possession of intoxicants, or they of him? Did he resist the officer, carry concealed weapons, bear burglar's tools? There are ways by which the 48-hour limit may be extended IF it appears wise. We have heard of the value of finger-prints in such cases.

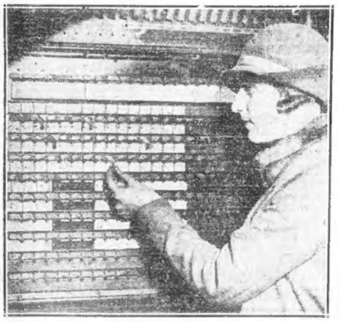
The Chelsea police officer, so far as appears, made no other complaint than that his prisoners were "suspicious persons." He appears to be suspicious himself; i. e., full of, inclined to or cherishing suspicion. How his District Court judge came to be found asleep at the constitutional switch we have no idea.

We hope our police officers, in Chelsea and elsewhere, will continue to bring in gentlemen who, "being abroad in the night time and acting in a suspicious"—i. e., doubtful—"manner, fail to give a satisfactory account of themselves."

But we also hope that police officers—AND judges of district courts—will understand that if something more substantial than suspicion is not forthcoming, then the suspected persons must be turned loose again.

A Powerful Machine

With This, Men Can Do ANYTHING



A VOTING MACHINE IN USE

This is the most powerful machine in the world—it registers the will of men.

If men and women of the country would use this machine intelligently, THINKING AS THEY VOTE instead of following like sheep behind a leader, or party, progress would be rapid, and selfish exploitation would be diminished.

But with the voting machine as with every other machine, you must KNOW HOW TO USE IT, and you must WANT TO USE IT.

With this machine, if men don't like a law they can change it.

This machine could wipe out prohibition tomorrow if men wanted to do away with it, or this machine could make prohibition more stringent and actually effective. It could punish the bootlegger with death, and put the bootlegger's customer in jail for twenty years.

The last item would cut down the bootleg trade seriously.

But not more than half of those that have the right to vote in the United States ACTUALLY DO VOTE.

In other words, fifty out of every hundred Americans don't much care what is done in government. THEY have enough. Therefore, they don't worry about the others.

Or if they are dissatisfied, they don't think it worth while to take an intelligent interest in public affairs and try to make conditions better.

The above shows the most powerful machine in the world, and it reminds you of Niagara Falls in the days before electric power was harnessed.

Niagara Falls was a great power, but it didn't do any good except for sightseeing.

This machine is the world's greatest power. But it does comparatively little good, because the people haven't the brains or will to use it. Half of them don't vote at all. The other half vote as a rule without knowing exactly what they are voting for, or WHY.

AN ALL-ENVELOPING PURPOSE EXISTS

By DR. FRANK CRANE

I THINK it is Mrs. Browning who wrote the lines:

> "I sighed to think God's goodness flows > around our incompleteness,
> Round our restlessness His rest."

This is akin to the Scriptural statement that, "The Lord maketh the world of men to praise Him."

Somehow or other, we do not know how it is, but we know that it is a fact, man is left entirely free to do as he pleases. Yet whatever may be his intentions or the result of his deeds, somehow there is an all-enveloping purpose of God or of destiny which has its own way.

Many men and many movements have endeavored to wreck things and to put over great crimes. The ambitious plans of Tamerlane, Alexander, Caesar and Napoleon for awhile seemed to threaten the welfare of the race. Yet in spite of their power and force, in time those movements came to naught, and the progress of the world flowed on.

There has been a slow movement of destiny since the beginning of time that has gradually improved the human race. Many times this improvement seems to have stopped, but in some way everything that impeded it has been swallowed up by time and the world moves on.

There seems to be some gigantic will which overrules the purposes of men and has its own way in the long run.

Gladiatorial games and human slavery have disappeared.

The open traffic in alcohol has received a severe setback in the United States.

There is universal talk of the outlawing of war.

So, slowly but surely, like the advance of an ocean tide the great will of God sweeps on. The millennium, apparently, will not be a sudden and dramatic event, but will come as the full flower and fruit of forces which we see budding and swelling all along the period of history.

Intelligent optimism is, therefore, no unreasoning attitude of mind, but is based upon the knowledge of history; it is the result of world experience.

The wise man is the man who rests peaceful and serene upon the conviction that in the end the purposes of destiny, which are good, will have their way.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

HOW do you feel about your child? Do you feel that it is YOUR child, something that you and your ancestors have fashioned on a certain mold?

Or do you feel that it is a stranger from a far country who is visiting you for a little while?

Here is a mother who feels that her child is a visitor. This short extract from her letter will open a big door in your mind if you will read it with understanding.

"I think," she writes, "that we attach far too much importance to a child's ancestry and the [illegible] prenatal influence. I am sure the souls always exist, EVEN IF THEY NEVER ARE BORN INTO HUMAN BODIES, and that the paltry nine months before birth have very little to do with shaping their characters. When you think of it in that way, it seems strange to speak of 'my' child or to act as if one owned one's child.

"I DOUBT IF THE CHILD OF ONE'S BODY IS MUCH MORE RELATED TO ONE THAN THE CHILD OF A STRANGER.

"Aren't children all strangers, and aren't we, their fathers and mothers, simply the gateway through which they enter this life? I have always felt that I could love any child as much as my own if it were as congenial to me, mentally and spiritually as my own."

I know another young mother who says this of her three-year-old daughter:

"I never feel that Doris is 'young' and I am 'old.' I am quite sure that Doris' spirit is as old as my own. She simply lacks experience in the affairs of this world and it is up to me, as her mother, to help her get that experience properly. But I am sure she has behind her quite as much wisdom as I have. Haven't you often noticed the strange flashes of shrewdness in children and their quick grasp of a situation? So often children are more intelligent and sensible than their parents—yet the parents blandly assume that they, themselves, have all the wisdom while the baby knows nothing. I have noticed that Doris can nearly always solve her own problems if I am patient and courageous enough to give her a chance. Her reasoning power seems quite as good as mine, but, of course, she must learn to cope with unfamiliar situations."

Does that seem a strange way to regard a child?

It takes courage and generosity to regard a child in that way—and the average parent must put aside a tremendous amount of egotism before he can do it.

It is easy to say that to a child and that is what most of us do say, in our hearts, when we address our that fact. Also you must do exactly what I say for I know everything and you know nothing at all."

It is easy to say that a child and that is what most of us do say, 'n our hearts, when we address our children.

It is very hard to say—"You are not mine. I did not make you. I merely equipped you with a body, and even that was a miracle which I cannot understand. You are not 'my child.' You are simply a guest in my home. But because it is a great privilege to have you as a guest, I will try to be very good to you. I will always try to remember your rights. It will be fatally easy for me to impose on you because you are little and I am big, but I will try not to do so. And I shall hope to win the treasure of your love and trust, not as my right, but as a reward for service honestly rendered."

It is hard to say that to a child or think that about a child. But it is the truth. And the whole world would be changed if we would live that truth with our children.

New York Day by Day

by O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, April 2—Diary of a modern Pepys: Early to the West street docks to say farewell to friends and glad they sailed and not I, and remained an hour watching gulls wheeling overhead, screaming their strangely human cries. And how they sight liners at sea beyond range of glasses has always fascinated me.

Home and came Arthur S. Hoffman, editor of McClure's, and we talked of things grave and gay and later with my wife to drive to the Battery. Broadway so swiftly changes, even in the brief time I've been away I scarcely knew it, and back through Chinatown and the Bowery.

To dinner at Marion Gillespie's and had our fortunes told and home again where I heard Ray Long, Jr., had cried so over a little boy being lost in a bedtime story his mother had to read it all over again revamping the story into a happier ending. So to bed.

ONE of those British gentlemen hemming and hawing in treble cleff was listening to a lady on a bus top express eagerness to see a certain play. Finally he said: "The chances are you'd be so disappointed you'd be surprised." And somehow it sounded like somebody falling down stairs.

THE bootleggers have taken to studios. Their professional cards give their names and addresses of their "studios" where they receive orders by phone and where select customers may drop in around the cocktail hour and have a few samples. The artists have left the studios and moved to the salons. The world grows grander.

SEVERAL producers have stopped selling standing room on opening nights. They argue the shuffling and whispering among standees in back of the house seriously disturbs the running of a play which is bad enough at any odds at the initial performance. Patrons who buy S. R. O. tickets are not those suffering from lack of means. Many regular theater goers prefer a place at the rail. They are usually those who want to see a particular scene, hear a song or such and can slip in and out without interruption.

ON SOME theatrical bulletin boards these days are posted "celebrity lists." This gives players a chance to know what famous people are in the audience and often inspires them to best endeavor. It also gives comedians acting as masters of ceremonies a chance to mention or introduce this or that notable in the audience.

THE first nighter mostly desired by producers continues to be Mayor Walker. He gives a gathering a New York halo and there is all the motor cycle hurrah before and after the arrival and departure of an official car.

HOWEVER, if there are too many official cars at a first night the proletariat is out of luck. The street is cleared for official cars and there seems to be an impressive sort of ceremony for which the ordinary run of folk must wait, which is not so bad if it isn't raining.

HOUSE ROBES have become an almost necessary part of a man's wardrobe. They used to be unusual—like a monocle or a girl who smoked. But today in hotel lobbies you often see men in robes who have come down for stamps, newspapers or to greet a friend, and I am told many men who are not called upon much to meet people wear them in their offices. A furnisher on Madison avenue says he used to sell about twenty robes a year. Now the number reaches several thousands.

THE play called "The Royal Family" is said to be a travesty of the talented Barrymores. As you've probably heard, the authors are reported to have submitted the script to one of them and asked if there were any changes desired. The reply was that the recipient did not care ever to speak to the authors again. That is the precise attitude, I suspect, that makes the Barrymores a topic for travesty.

OH, THESE WOMEN!

By Leola Allard

CALLING the hogs is a new occupation for women, and they had a contest to see who called them best. The contestants met in Gerber, Tehana County. There were 25 contestants. These women have voices with "hog appeal, originality, musical quality, variety and carrying power," and the hogs will come when they say the word, which is "Oinck."

Publishers say that David Copperfield is still one of the best sellers, and the majority of those who buy it are women.

Edna Leedom, musical comedy star, married $8,000,000 and kept it a secret three weeks. That must have been a terrible strain! Women are improving.

Any number of women are shaving off their eyebrows and drawing new ones nearer to their hearts' desire. This saves labor, pain and time. Plucking them hurts a little and they get such foxy eye brows this new way. But they will have to "hang their clothes on a hickory limb and not go near the water."

Mae Murray is suing Jack Donovan, another picture star, for selling her a $25,000 house full of new furniture as a $50,000 house full of antiques. Mae says she bought it under the influence of pretty shaded lights and organ music. There's a big idea for real estate salesmen.

The butler-chauffeur now tells the story that Mr. Allen gave Peaches a diamond bracelet when they were having dinner in the Allen home and Peaches jumped up in girlish glee and kissed him. And that Mr. Allen, with a furtive look toward the service pantry door, motioned her to her chair with this admonition: "Take it easy, kid." But Peaches says she already has $250,000 worth of bigger and better bracelets. She must take them easy!

Have you noticed that when a man gets sued for divorce and another woman is named, he fumbles a little and then complains about his wife's Peke dogs? It must be that women who lead dogs' lives have an accentuated sympathy for the poor things.

A royal commission on divorce was appointed in England and two women members of the commission were in favor of changing the law to hold the sexes equally responsible. In England a wife cannot get a divorce because her husband is unfaithful. The English law says that since the man cannot bring an illegitimate heir to the home, it doesn't matter what his behavior is outside his home.
